Freight Hike Proposals Opposed by Georgia

LATE NEWS

Draftees' Job Protection Cited

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Draftees may serve in the Armed Forces as long as three years without losing claim to their civilian jobs, the Veterans' Re-Employment Bureau has announced.

The new Selective Service Act, which became effective June 24, provides for an enlistment of not more than three years, said Robert K. Salyers, Director of the Bureau. The draft induction period is 21 months.

"An inductee, after serving 21 months, may without loss of re-employment rights extend his period of active duty for a maximum of 15 months, provided there is no break in the continuity of his service," Salyers said.

Re-enlistment after that would cost the veteran his hold on the job he filled in civilian life, Salyers said.

American Plunges to Death from London Hotel

LONDON—(UP)—An American plunged 80 feet to his death from the fourth floor of the Piccadilly Hotel, narrowly missing afternoon shoppers in crowded Piccadilly Circus.

Scotland Yard identified him as Robert Edwarde Rose, 34, of Library, Pa.

Yard officials said papers in Rose's pocket listed his father, Henry C. Rose, as living at the Library address. It was not yet known what he was doing in England, but private sources said a man named Rose arrived here Sept. 13 with much luggage. He had 20 suits of clothes.

Peru Tanks Smash at Students

LIMA, Peru—(UP)—Government tanks smashed the gates of San Marcos University and routed leftwing students barricaded there since Monday.

Eighty-three students were rounded up in the campus of the university—oldest in the Western Hemisphere—and taken into custody.

The students did not attempt to resist the troops. Authorities said most of them were members of the outlawed Apra Party.

Chinese Official Denies Plan to Abandon Manchuria

NANKING—(AP)—A military spokesman yesterday denied knowledge of any Chinese government plan to abandon Manchuria.

The reports persist in Peiping, however, that President Chiang Kai-Shek is about to tell his armies at Mukden to leave for North China, there to make a fresh stand against the Communists.

The U. S. Embassy, which maintains a consulate at Mukden, likewise said it had heard of no move to quit Manchuria. The Embassy presumably would be given advance warning.

Two army-controlled newspapers in Nanking predicted further government withdrawals from isolated areas. While they did not mention Manchuria, they agreed "it's better to save troops than save face."

24 Planes Dispatched From Pacific

WASHINGTON — (UP) — The United States last night threw 24 big Navy transport planes into the expanding airlift that is ferrying food and fuel to Russian-blockaded Berlin. It was the first time Navy planes and pilots had been assigned directly to the airlift.

The planes, comprising two entire squadrons of four-engine C-54's, were ordered to Germany from various Navy stations in the Pacific.

They were the first installment of 66 additional C-54's which President Truman authorized for the airlift last week after a White House conference with Gen. Lucius D. Clay, American Commander in Germany.

WASHINGTON — (UP) — The Navy revealed yesterday that it would reach a strength of 14,500 planes by next July and that it now was testing a high-speed, twin-jet, tailless fighter.

The increase in the airlift came on the heels of Russia's veto of a proposal in the United Nations Security Council for ending the land blockade of the German capital.

The U. S. airlift, with a current strength of about 200 C-54's, is delivering an average of 4,000 to 4,500 tons of food and fuel daily. British planes deliver another 1,000 tons.

The Navy previously had been supporting the airlift indirectly. Navy planes took over many global transport routes of the Military Air Transport Service to free air force planes for the Berlin shuttle. Navy planes also ferried supplies across the Atlantic to be picked up in Western Germany by the airlift.

Defense department spokesmen said orders were issued last night effecting the transfer of the Navy squadrons (VR-6 and VR-8) to Germany from the Pacific division of NATS.

Triple Navy crews will accompany the planes to Germany, officials said. They will take off for Germany as soon as possible.

U. S. Pact Asked by Europeans

PARIS — (AP) — The five Foreign Ministers of the Brussels Alliance announced last night they were asking the United States for a North Atlantic Defense Pact.

A communique at the end of a two-day session said the foreign ministers of Britain, France, Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg agreed to instruct their Ambassadors in Washington to take up this project with the American State and Defense Departments in the near future.

High American officials in Paris said Saturday the United States and Canada would begin drafting such a pact soon after the United States presidential election. It would be the United States' first such peace-time defense pact in history.

British objection developed to another project to establish a Western European Consultative Parliament soon.

British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin consented, however, to take up this question for further study. This will be the first time proposals for European federation have been entertained formally on a governmental level.

The conference agreed to set up a Committee of Representatives from the five nations to study the promotion of greater European unity. The Committee is to report back to the ministers at their next session in January.

This Committee, which will meet in Paris, is to be composed of five French, five British, three Belgian, three Dutch and two Luxembourg delegates.

The ministers reviewed reports from their envoys in Washington on the preliminary conversations last Summer for an Atlantic defense union and agreed such a pact was desirable, an official French spokesman said.

McDonald Asks Stay On Request

Georgia's Public Service Commission today is fighting proposals to increase freight rates on three fronts.

Speaking for the National Association of Railroads and Utilities Commissioners of which he is president, Chairman Walter McDonald of the Georgia Public Service Commission is calling upon the Interstate Commerce Commission not to grant a request of the nation's railroads for an immediate eight percent rate increase without a hearing.

McDonald, on another front, warned Southern railroads they ultimately would lose money because of a loss of tonnage if they increased their export and import rates and would damage development of the Savannah and Brunswick ports.

The Public Service Commission also asked the Interstate Commerce Commisison for permission to intervene in a hearing at Louisville, Ky., concerning rates on coal from Alabama, Kentucky and Tennessee to various destinations, including all points in Georgia.

The nation's railroads have asked a total freight rate increase of 13 percent to meet rising wage and fuel costs. They want eight percent now, and will wait until after a hearing Nov. 30 for the other five percent. McDonald said the National Commissioners' Association was objecting to any further increase without a hearing.

"The eight percent increase would cost shippers of freight $672,500,000 annually," McDonald said. "The request of the railroads to make the increase without a hearing indicated their lack of feeling of responsibility to the public. Rates already have been increased 50 percent in the South and 62½ percent in the East since the war. Inflation has not reached such a stage that $672,500,000 can be added to the Nation's freight bill without causing dire economic reaction."

Concerning the proposal of railroads to increase their import and export rates six cents per 100 pounds, McDonald wrote J. G. Kerr, Chairman of the Southern Freight Association, that this would discourage the use of Georgia ports by Georgia shippers.

In the coal rate case, the Western Kentucky mine owners are asking that rates from their mines be reduced or rates from competing mines be increased. The Georgia Public Service Commission's rate expert, Sam H. Flint, will appear at the hearing and ask the Interstate Commerce Commission to prescribe the lowest possible rates into Georgia from Western Kentucky and not to increase rates from other mines.

The Commission yesterday took under advisement a request of eight Georgia railroads to eliminate a rule that railroads be required to continually advertise their train schedules in newspapers.

INTIMATE BELONGINGS—Many of the intimate belongings of the late Franklin D. Roosevelt, marked and described for easy identification, are included in this glass-inclosed display case in the Little White House at Warm Springs. The Little White House yesterday was officially opened as a national shrine. At the bottom of the case is a copy of The Constitution, brought to Mr. Roosevelt shortly before his death in 1945.

FDR's Little 'Home in Georgia' Opened to All as National Shrine

By CELESTINE SIBLEY
Constitution Staff Writer

WARM SPRINGS—The homely, intimate belongings of a great man became the property of his fellow countrymen here yesterday as Franklin D. Roosevelt's only personal home, his final retreat from public life, was officially opened as a national shrine.

It was a reinforced, screwed-down, fluorescent lighted, plexiglass covered, guaranteed tourist-proof Little White House to which Ivan Allen, Chairman of the Warm Springs Memorial Commission Basil O'Connor, Honorary Chairman, and Acting Gov. Thompson welcomed the nation.

The Acting Governor pointed out the tax dollars of the people of Georgia had made the shrine possible and indicated additional allocations for it might be possible if the request is presented to him immediately.

And, the men and women from all parts of Georgia and neighboring States who had driven miles with no more hope than the chance of seeing the shrine from the front fence, had tears in their eyes as they noted the marks of the late President's wheel chair on the soft pine floors and soberly examined the dishes from which he ate his last meal.

The Memorial Commission had intended this day as a preview opening for the press and radio, but it was unable to turn back the throngs of tourists who have been coming from 25 States since the middle of last week. They went through the grounds in groups of eight or 10 with a guide who, in most cases, was an old neighbor of the Roosevelts and was able to talk familiarly of the President's jaunts around the countryside in his hand-controlled, '38 Ford, which still bears as a poignant reminder of his buoyant aliveness, the Georgia license tag: "FDR—1—1945."

A temporary speaker's stand was set up in the back yard of the Little White House. The front is a deep ravine jutting away from the sundeck.

From this stand Graham Jackson, Negro troubadour to the President, played again the great man's favorite songs, and officials of the Memorial Commission gave the history of the effort to preserve for future generations the little Georgia cottage where Roosevelt died.

"This was the only personal home that Roosevelt ever had," said Chairman Allen. "You recall that he lived with his mother at Hyde Park, in the Executive Mansion at Albany, in the White House in Washington, in the Roosevelt home in Canada. But the Little White House was his very own. He picked the spot. He loved these simple, rural, rustic surroundings. We have tried to keep it the same."

Back of plexi-glass, lighted by cleverly concealed fluorescent tubes, are such homely items as the dime store silver, a little coffee pot with a broken lid, a hand-turned ice cream freezer, the President's old hat in the hall closet hobnobbing with crystal and fine china and expensive gifts from foreign dignitaries.

Under the direction of Secretary-Treasurer Lee Trimbie, the Commission has faithfully preserved the cottage as it was down to a penciled note scrawled by a weeping Negro woman over the old-fashioned kitchen range the afternoon in April, 1945, when Roosevelt died:

"Daisy Bonner cook the first meal and the last one this cottage for the President Roosevelt."

40 Boys Club Members Thrilled By Flight Over Atlanta in DC-4

(Another Picture On Page Four)

By MARJORY SMITH

Perhaps the noisest DC-4 planeload ever to take to the air circled over Atlanta yesterday afternoon as 40 whooping, thrilled Atlanta Boys' Club members had their first taste of air travel.

"Whee! This beats the roller coaster and the ferris wheel all hollow," Gary Cooper, 12, of 480 Capitol Ave., S. W., decided, and Jimmy Pitts, 15, of 293 Crew St., S. W., breathed:

"Wait'll the other kids at school hear I been up in a airplane!"

Capital Air Lines made the 40-minute trip possible, in co-operation with this week's extended Atlanta Community Chest campaign. Bill McGarry, District Sales Manager of the air lines, pointed out:

"If this year's Chest drive doesn't go over, a lot of these boys won't have the recreation they need to grow into useful Atlanta citizens. The Boys' Club is one Red Feather agency that would be close to every Atlantan's heart."

Jack Galloway, Director of the Atlanta Boys' Club, kept his excited charges company aloft yesterday. The far-from-blase passengers kept pretty Stewardess Oveta Foster busy with their questions about air-pockets, seat belts and the giant ship that carried them.

"We saw Stone Mountain, the Naval Air Station and all the Boys' Club branches," Bill Grant, 13, of 535 Washington St., S. W., reported from a window vantage point. But seven-year-old Eddie Kirkland, of 662 Francis Pl., N. W., youngest passenger, could beat that.

"Pooh—I got to go into the the flight deck with the pilot and co-pilot," he gloated, "and I looked straight down and didn't lose my stomach!"

Weather Today: Merely Ideal

It's the same idyllic weather story for Atlanta today and tomorrow—fair skies, warm afternoons and cool nights.

"Just ideal Autumn weather," the forecaster promised.

This will be the fifth such day in a row, he said, pointing out that the last trace of rain was recorded here Friday. But most of last week was "pretty," too, with the last measurable rainfall recorded Sunday a week ago.

Although yesterday's mean temperature (60) was one degree above normal, temperatures for the month have been slightly lower than normal, the Weatherman said.

The thermometer here today is expected to reach 76 degrees this afternoon, after a morning low of 46. Yesterday's high and low readings were 75 and 44.

2 Buildings Sold Here For $235,000

A downtown business structure and a large northside apartment building were sold yesterday for an aggregate sum of $235,000.

The three-story and basement building at 2-4 North Broad St. was sold to the ABC Realty Company for $135,000. Adams-Cates Company handled the transaction for the Hodgson estate, owners of the property.

Ben Massell, of the ABC Company, said the building will continue in its present use for nine years when current leases in the structure will expire. He said the building would be remodeled at that time. The building now is occupied by a delicatessen and a drug store.

The Colonnades Court Apartments, located directly behind the Briarcliff Hotel at 734-46 N. Highland Ave., N. E., was sold for $110,000.

The 24-unit apartment building was sold by Dave Epstein, of 915 Plymouth Rd., N. E., to E. H. Roane and R. W. Roane, of Atlanta and Chattanooga, as an investment. The two-story structure containing one and two-bedroom apartments, is fully occupied.

The transaction was handled by Q. R. Hubert and D. C. Taylor of the Hubert-Taylor Realty Company.

Truman, Dewey Attack Other's Campaign Tactics

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Gov. Dewey said last night the Truman administration has hit "a new low in mudslinging." President Truman declared his Republican opponent is trying to run his campaign like "a high-level tea party," avoiding mention of "the facts of life."

Dewey prepared his speech for delivery in Chicago. The President addressed his remarks to Cleveland voters. The Republican and Democratic nominees are on a week-long, day-apart tour of big Eastern and Midwestern cities that winds up one of the most intensive presidential campaigns in American history.

Leading up to his "mudslinging" charge, Dewey declared the Democratic candidates have spread "fantastic fears among our people."

"They are openly sneering at the ancient American ideal of a free and united people," he said. "They have attempted to promote antagonism and prejudice. They have scattered reckless abuse along the entire right of way from coast to coast. . . ."

"That is the kind of campaign I refuse to wage," Dewey said, declaring the United States "desperately needs new and better leadership."

Speaking in a more informal vein, Mr. Truman said his opponent has treated the Republican-controlled eightieth Congress "like a poor relation":

"He has shut it up in the back room so its bad manners and terrible record won't frighten the voters he is entertaining in the parlor."

The President referred to that Congress as an "old sinner" that refused to repent and "backslid into the gutter of special privilege."

And he didn't qualify his forecast a bit when he said:

"We are going to win this election."

Mr. Truman said public opinion polls that show Dewey out in front are completely wrong. He declared the Republicans are "on the run."

What the GOP would like to do, he said, is lull the voters into sleeping instead of balloting next Tuesday. He said the Republicans know in their hearts that a big vote spells their defeat.

Dewey said the Administration has "tried appeasement on one day and bluster the next" on foreign policy. He said it "has failed even more miserably at home."

The New York Governor had announced in advance his Chicago speech would review his plans for helping agriculture, business and labor. He pledged all-out backing for the farm price support program. He promised vigorous enforcement of laws to protect people from monopoly. He said he offers an administration that "really believes in the welfare of labor."

The engineers of the Truman and Dewey campaign specials winked headlights at each other as the two trains passed near Swanton, Ohio. Dewey is due to speak in Cleveland tonight. Mr. Truman appears in Boston.

Mr. Truman campaigned vigorously through both Indiana and Ohio yesterday while, in contrast, Dewey rolled without a scheduled speaking stop toward his night address in Chicago.

Mr. Truman told a crowd at the Toledo Municipal Auditorium that the Communists are counting on "a reactionary Republican admin-

Effort To Crush Non-Red Governments Under Way Throughout World--Dulles

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

John Foster Dulles, foreign affairs adviser to Republican Presidential Candidate Thomas E. Dewey, lashed out at Communism in a major United Nations speech yesterday.

Dulles is a delegate to the UN General Assembly in Paris and is looked upon by many delegates as the next Secretary of State if Dewey is elected Nov. 2. He spoke before the Assembly's 58-member Political Committee during debate on the Greek question.

WORLD TODAY

Dulles charged a general effort was under way throughout the World to overthrow non-Communist governments by "force, coercion and terrorism." The trouble in Berlin and Greece, he said, were part of a general pattern.

Britain, France and China joined the United States in presenting a resolution providing for continuation of the UN Special Committee on the Balkans (UNSCOB) and demanding that all countries stop aiding Greek guerrilla fighters.

The Palestine question also caused a brief stir at the UN when U. S. Delegate Warren R. Austin, October President of the Security Council, adjourned a Council meeting angrily as a result of Arab criticism of the Council.

Also in This Story:

UN Marks Time on Berlin; Reds Spurn "Air" Complaint; French Use Tanks in Strike; Paraguay Crushes Revolt.

Egyptian and Syrian delegates charged the Council was biased on the Palestine question. Austin said the Council could not be driven into action by such charges. He adjourned the discussion until Thursday.

The UN marked time on the Berlin question, following Russia's veto of the compromise proposal put forward by the six "neutral" members of the Security Council. Argentine Foreign Minister Juan Atilio Bramuglia, however, indicated he would continue his efforts to bring the East and West together.

In Berlin, the Russians rejected British and American complaints that Soviet planes were interfering with efforts of the Western Powers to overcome the Soviet blockade by flying in supplies to the Western sectors.

France continued her efforts to end a crippling Communist-led coal mine strike. Violence flared as the miners fired on soldiers with machineguns and potato-masher grenades. The troops threw tanks into the fight. A miner was killed and eight other persons were badly wounded.

In South America, the Paraguayan Government announced it had crushed a military revolt and arrested the leaders. The uprising, led by Col. Carlos Montanario, brother of Foreign Minister Domingo Montanaro, started early Monday.

In Lima, Peru, police rammed two Army tanks through the doors of a building at San Marcos University and ejected 83 students who had barricaded themselves inside the building.

CARROLLTON—A new $7,000 two-story brick and tile Masonic temple has been completed at Whitesburg, according to J. D. Simpkins, Worshipful Master. The structure was erected on the site of the old building, which was razed.

RAIL OFFICIALS PUZZLED

Ex-Atlantan's Fall From Train 'Mystery'

The fall of a former Atlantan from a moving Chicago-to-Atlanta passenger train was called "a complete mystery" by railroad officials here late yesterday.

Mrs. Ruth Cooney, 32, of Chicago, who was en route to visit her mother, Mrs. Ruth Bush, 982 Fortress Ave., S. W., was thrown from an L. & N. train near Hopkinsville, Ky., and suffered severe injuries, including a broken arm and possibly a broken back.

"We don't know how it could have happened," Clark Dunn, L. & N. Division Passenger Agent, said.

Dunn said Mrs. Cooney's disappearance from the train was discovered between 12 and 1 a. m., when her three-year-old son, Bobby, began crying in his coach seat.

He said Mrs. Cooney was last seen in the tavern car. A search for her was made from one end of the train to the other. Several passengers speculated the missing woman might have mistaken vestibule doors between cars for a restroom door, he added.

"But those vestibule doors have locks that are very difficult to open," Dunn explained. "Besides, there are double doors—both locked. And she would have had to open both doors. . . . That would be practically impossible for anybody but a trained attendant."

Mrs. Cooney was found at a roadside 10 miles north of Hopkinsville, where she had crawled from a railroad embankment, Sheriff Lanice Futrell reported. He said she was covered with cuts and bruises and was taken by truck drivers to a Hopkinsville hospital.

The Sheriff talked intermittently with the woman, but said she was unable to give him a coherent story other than to say she was pushed from the train. She mentioned something about two Naval recruits on the train.

Railroad officials here, however, said investigating authorities who questioned passengers "don't seem to think there was any foul play."

Dunn said the Louisville office of the Louisville & Nashville Railroad would make a complete investigation.

Mrs. Cooney's child continued the trip to Atlanta under the care of the conductor.

Robert Cooney, a photographer, put his wife and son on the train. When he learned of the accident, Cooney called and told his wife's sister he was flying to Atlanta to pick up his son and would return to Hopkinsville to see his wife.

Mrs. Cooney's mother left here yesterday for Hopkinsville.

'30 Days, Nights in Bar' Ends Run; 'Cast' Jailed

SAN FRANCISCO—(AP)—Police have closed the run of the epic "Thirty Days And Nights In A Bar Room."

It ended in another booking, however—the booking of Patrick J. Flemming, 23, recently from Elkins, W. Va., on a charge of petty theft.

Patrolman John Nyland said for the past month Flemming had been living, undetected, in an attic of the bond bar on lower Market Street.

And Proprietor Tom Sullivan declared that only now were events of the past month shaping into perspective.

Patrolman Nyland said Sullivan told him the juke box had been jimmied open six times. Hard-boiled eggs and sandwiches disappeared. Bottles of choice liquor vanished. The football pool funds were rifled. Loose change from cigar sales couldn't be found.

Yesterday a customer visited the gents' washroom. It appeared incredible, but good Bourbon whiskey was leaking from the ceiling. He called Sullivan who called police.

They hollered "Whoever's up there come down." A trapdoor moved. Nyland said Flemming dropped down and said he was sorry he had knocked over a bottle upstairs.

The officer said Flemming made a point of climbing to the attic a few moments before the bar closed. Then he enjoyed the hospitality of the place, slept until mid-day, dropped down for a shave and a stroll, and returned at night.

Ten Silent Witnesses Held in Court's Custody

LOS ANGELES—(AP)—Federal Judge Peirson M. Hall yesterday refused to release from custody 10 witnesses cited for contempt of court in a Federal Grand Jury inquiry of Communist activities.

Judge Hall, who jailed eight of the witnesses Monday night and gave the other two temporary liberty to find baby-sitters, said that if every witness before a Grand Jury could refuse to answer questions "the laws on our books would become mockeries."

Attorney John McTernan, representing the 10, argued for their release pending an appeal on the contempt citations. He said the witnesses intended no lawlessness and "there was no showing before the Grand Jury or this court that these people are members, officers or connected with the Communist Party."

The attorney contended that giving answers to the questions—including one on whether they knew Los Angeles Communist Party officials—might tend to incriminate them because of Communist prosecutions instigated by the U. S. Attorney General.

McTernan said it has been fairly customary for Federal Courts to release persons, even those charged with serious criminal offenses, on bail pending appeal.

The jurist had said Monday night when he jailed them that they would be held in custody until they expressed willingness to answer the disputed questions.

The jurist in denying the release said that defense charges that the Attorney General was acting for political purposes were immaterial. He said the attorney general and other Federal officers are sworn to carry out their duties.

As to the contention that answering the questions would incriminate the witnesses, Judge Hall said:

"There could be no intimidation of any of the witnesses by any of these questions. There is no statute in the United States which makes it a crime to be a member of the Communist Party.

"There is a statute which makes it a crime to advocate overthrow of the government by force and violence, but guilt is a personal matter. There is no statute which makes the joining of any organization a crime.

The two still at liberty are Mrs. Miriam Brooks Sherman and Mrs. Dorothy Baskin Forest. They were given until Wednesday noon to find attendants for their small children. Others jailed after a court session lasting until almost midnight are Mrs. Margaret I. Noble, Wesley Bissey, Ben Dobbs, Henry Steinberg, Phillip Bock, Delphine Murphy Smith, Frank Edward Alexander and Samuel Harry Kasinowitz.

Audio-Visual Aids Praised To 225 Georgians

Floyd E. Brooker, Audio-Visual Education Chief for the U. S. Office of Education, last night challenged 225 Georgia educators to meet the Atomic Age by utilizing audio-visual aids.

Mrs. Gale C. Griswold, President of the Atlanta Film Council, presided at the annual Audio-Visual Education dinner, held in Rich's Tea Room.

"Civilization can be destroyed just as badly through lack of education as it could be by the Atomic Bomb," Brooker said.

He urged use of audio-visual aids "to teach more people, more effectively, more quickly."

The observance of Audio-Visual Education Week will be continued at 7:30 p. m. today when Atlanta church leaders present an Exposition at the North Avenue Presbyterian Church.

SOCIETY MATRON AMONG COWGIRLS

Swiss Police Expel Rodeo Troupe Into France as Aftermath of Riot

GENEVA, Switzerland — (AP) — Swiss police yesterday expelled into France an American rodeo troupe, including one bronchobusting cowgirl who identified herself as Mrs. Katherine Carnegie, estranged wife of socially-prominent Thomas M. Carnegie, Junior.

Mrs. Carnegie, who said her husband is a great-grandnephew of Andrew Carnegie, was put across the border with 39 other members of the Larry Sunbrock Rodeo and Thrill Circus. The troupe was expelled for becoming involved Sunday night in a free-for-all battle with Swiss police.

Mrs. Carnegie wore a scarlet cowboy shirt, striped gray trousers, ten-gallon hat and cowboy boots as the group was escorted to the border by a strong police guard. She said her home is at Darien, Conn., and New York.

The troop, headed by Sunbrock himself, crossed into France near the border town of Annemasse. Sunbrock, described by the Swiss press as "chief of the tribe," is from Winter Garden, Fla.

Mrs. Carnegie said she joined the rodeo in New York because she was desperate for a job.

"I was looking for anything," she said. "I sat around New York all Summer, trying to get a job and I finally left with this rodeo as bronco rider. I had never done it before in my life. It was absolute desperation."

She said she rode her first bronco in Antwerp and injured her knee and her hip.

"I'm fed up with the whole deal," she said. "If the show goes to Paris, I'm going with it and then on to New York. If it doesn't go to Paris, I'm going anyway. It's been a fantastic life since I left New York."

The cowboys criticized the Swiss police sharply.

Sunbrock said "I like Switzerland and the people there very much, but I think the police use gestapo methods." One policeman was so nervous, he said, he fired his pistol through his coat pocket.

When the cowboy and girls were taken to the border it was in groups of seven or eight with a guard of six policemen on each truck.

Sunbrock also said he had been forced to pay the 1,000-franc prize to the Swiss customer who claimed to have ridden the show's toughest horse for 10 seconds. Sunbrock claimed the customer hadn't won. That was what started the ruckus Sunday night.

Cowboy Joe Evans of Miles City, Montana, said:

"I'm an honest and upright citizen back in the States, with a bank account and everything. Here they treat me like a common criminal."

Frank Harding Fox, of Salem, N. J., another cowboy, said "We were tried and convicted without getting a chance to open our mouths."

James Hawk, 63-year-old Indian from Oklahoma City and the show's outstanding roper, described the whole thing as a "pretty raw deal."

On June 22, 1948, Mrs. Katherine Carnegie filed suit in New York for a separation from Thomas M. Carnegie, Jr., saying she was "tired of living like a gypsy."

Mrs. Carnegie testified before a Supreme Court referee that after their marriage on April 13, 1946, at St. Marys, Ga., "we just went from place to place" until her husband abandoned her in September, 1947. She asked for $150 weekly from her husband. The referee reserved decision.

'ALP! 'ALP!—A bronco-busting cowgirl, above, one of a rodeo troupe ousted from Switzerland, identifield herself as Mrs. Katherine Carnegie, estranged wife of Thomas M. Carnegie, Jr., a great-grandnephew of Andrew Carnegie. The group was put across the border into France after having become involved in a free-for-all with Geneva police.

Gordon Poses Problem for School Board

High construction costs and increasing school populations yesterday posed a perplexing problem for the Atlanta Board of Education.

A large delegation of parents whose children attend the John B. Gordon Elementary School appeared at the City Hall insisting that four new classrooms be added to the institution regardless of the increased cost of building since the 1946 school bond issue was voted.

Led by Mrs. C. L. Shimp, Jr., of 448 Metropolitan Pl., S. E., the group cited figures showing Gordon has an enrollment of 851, a figure 200 above last year. Allotments from the 1946 bond issue set up $30,000 for four additional classrooms for Gordon.

The Board of Education last week asked bids for two new rooms which it was estimated would require the $30,000 allocated for the project.

Miss Ira Jarrell, City School Superintendent, and Dr. Charles C. Rife, Board member from the affected area, said they would present the matter to the Board and attempt to find some solution.

BODY RODE LOCOMOTIVE 15 MILES

Husband Tells of Grabbing Baby Instant Before Train Killed Wife

BALTIMORE—(AP)—John Little told police yesterday he grabbed his 11-month-old son out of his wife's arms an instant before she was hit and killed by a speeding passenger train.

Neighbors said Little came screaming to them with the baby in his arms and shouted:

"My God, call the police. Erma just jumped in front of a train."

Mrs. Erma Little, 31, was found dead on the front of a Baltimore & Ohio locomotive when it pulled into Camden Station Monday night.

The Littles live at Dorsey, Md., about 15 miles southwest of Baltimore and about 200 yards from the B. & O. mainline tracks.

The young distillery plant foreman gave this story yesterday to the Baltimore News-Post:

"After supper, it's a habit with me to get in the car and ride to my parents' home for a brief visit while Erma does the dishes.

When I left yesterday she seemed in good spirits.

"It was quite dark when I left there to go back home.

"When I got near my home I saw Erma carrying the baby along the road which leads to the railroad tracks.

"I called to her, but she didn't answer. I called again and she paid no attention. Then I jumped from my car and started to run toward her. Just then I heard the train's whistle. She began to run. I ran across the field toward her. She reached the tracks before I did and just stood there—stood there between the rails with the baby in her arms.

"I screamed:

"'Erma, don't—for God's sake, don't!'

"She just stood there.

"I tried to grab the baby with one hand and drag her off the tracks with the other. I managed to snatch the baby from her arms. I had a grip on her dress. She pulled it from my hand.

"I jumped from the tracks with the baby in my arms. The train struck her. It almost hit me.

"I stumbled from the tracks and cried for help.

"I don't know why she did it. Only God knows."

GOP SIGNS HERE HALT HIM

Tom Stokes Sees Dewey Edging Truman in State

(Editor's Note: Tom Stokes, native Atlantan, is a regular contributor to the opposite-editorial page of The Constitution. His column is featured in 117 newspapers throughout the Nation. He was in Atlanta doing research last week.)

By THOMAS L. STOKES

Along Peachtree Street here, in the uptown business district, there is a sight that pulled the returning native son up short and, from the comment, is quite an innovation to citizens here generally.

It is a commodious and well-staffed political headquarters with big placards "Dewey - Warren" right out in the open, in plain view, perhaps the first such ostentatious and bold display of militant Republicanism since carpet-bagger days. Gen. Elbert P. Tuttle, retired, hero of two world wars, told the visiting reporter that if he'd tarry in the city a few days he would see another sight symbolic of the intensive campaign a revivified and reorganized Republican Party is putting on all over this State.

That is a giant "Dewey-Warren" banner to stretch clear across Peachtree Street for the wind-up of the campaign.

Gen. Tuttle, a prominent Atlanta lawyer, who typifies the new leadership in Georgia's Republican Party, heads up the campaign for Fulton County and it is certain that Gov. Thomas E. Dewey will roll up a big vote in Atlanta.

Tuttle and Harry Sommers, local automobile man, who is Republican National Committeeman, are hopeful of getting for Gov. Dewey the biggest share of Georgia votes in the triangular contest among the New York Governor, President Truman and J. Strom Thurmond. These two leaders emerged from the victory of the Dewey delegation over that of Sen. Taft, of Ohio, in a close seating contest at the Philadelphia convention in June. Neither is a native Southerner, but both have lived here for many years.

This vigorous Republican Party is something new under the Georgia sun.

So, too, of course, is the Dixiecrat Party which, however, will attract about it a long familiar element—what are known here as "The Wool Hat Boys," folks in the rural areas who trooped after Tom Watson in long-gone days and in these latter times have followed the late Gene Talmadge and his son, Herman, who will be the State's next Governor.

Nobody wants to go out on a limb here in a situation complicated by new and confusing factors in a State so long rock-ribbed Democratic which has been threatened only once since War Between the States and Reconstruction days, that when Herbert Hoover rolled up a considerable vote in 1928, though not enough. But the best judgment seems to be that President Truman will run first in the three-cornered contest, with Gov. Dewey a close second and Gov. Thurmond, of South Carolina, third.

But that won't settle it. Recently a law passed 120 years ago was discovered which requires that, in event no Presidential candidate gets a majority the State Legislature must decide to whom the State's electoral votes go. It looks as if that won't be too important in the national result. The Legislature is a Talmadge legislature. So it will be up to Herman.

Nobody knows what his decision would be. But the young man wants to run for the Senate two years from now, when the term of Sen. George expires, and a guess is that he would decide for President Truman, if the latter got a plurality.

He did not go along with the Dixiecrats, though many of his supporters will vote for Gov Thurmond. An attempt was made to get the Talmadge organization to take over the regular Democratic Party as was done in neighboring Alabama. Much pressure was brought by Dixiecrat leaders, among them, former Gov. Frank Dixon, Birmingham corporation lawyer. But Herman Talmadge got off a hot seat when Acting Gov. M. E. Thompson, whom he defeated in the primary, called a special session of the Legislature and had President Truman's name put on the ballot.

There is only one State ticket on the ballot, that of the regular Democrats headed by Sen. Russell and Herman Talmadge. Republican leaders decided against a State ticket for fear of alienating votes from the national ticket that might come to them naturally from Democrats disgruntled with the President who, however, want to see the regular Democratic Party continue in power, locally. Republicans are making haste slowly with their new-found power. A Henry Wallace State ticket was barred from the ballot and this was upheld by the three-judge Federal Circuit Court of Appeals. Though the Progressive Party Presidential candidate, himself, is on the ballot.

President Truman is almost the forgotten man among regular Democratic leaders here that he is in some other Southern States. His name is not mentioned publicly by either Sen. George or Sen. Russell who are taking no part in the campaign. Sen. Russell, it will be recalled, was the South's candidate against President Truman at the Philadelphia convention, but he did not join the Dixiecrat movement.

Belatedly, the Truman slate of electors, which includes prominent public figures, called a meeting this week to organize an eleventh hour effort for the President.

istration" to bring on an economic depression "that will undermine the Marshall Plan and pave the way for world revolution."

He said the Communists are supporting the third party in the hope it will take enough votes away from the Democrats to let the Republicans win.

Three other presidential hopefuls kept busy.

Gov. J. Strom Thurmond, State's Rights Democrat, spent his second day in Arkansas criticizing racial civil rights proposals which have been espoused by President Truman, Gov. Dewey and Henry A. Wallace.

Wallace, the Progressive Party nominee, arranged a broadcast from New York. Norman Thomas, the Socialist candidate, billed three speeches in the same city.

While Gov. Earl Warren, the Republican vice presidential nominee, opened a two-day vote drive in Southern California, his Democratic opponent, Sen. Alben W. Barkley, continued his criticism on the Republican Congress in a speech at Paterson, N. J.

In Georgia, where the political situation is especially confused this year, the Atlanta Journal came out for President Truman. The publisher of the newspaper is James M. Cox, 1920 Democratic nominee for President.

VA Hospital Care of Vets Called 'Superb' by Gray

By WELLINGTON WRIGHT

Gen. Carl R. Gray, noted railroad man and new Administrator of Veterans' Affairs, hopes to run the Veterans' Administration just like he ran railroads most of his life.

I've spent hundreds of millions of dollars in operating railroads, but I could never get a line on just how well I was doing the job until I went out and rode on them myself," he explained. "Now that I've taken over the work of directing the Veterans Administration, I feel I can't do the job as it ought to be done until I go out and see for myself what it's all about."

And that's why Gen. Gray until recently Executive Vice President of the Chicago and Northwestern Railway, is in Atlanta on a tour of the VA facilities in this area. It is part of a program which is taking him all over the United States. He was warm in his praise of the general VA hospital facilities.

GEN. CARL R. GRAY
Visits VA Facilities

"So far, I've visited 75 of them all over the East, the North and part of the South," he said. "And I want to go on record as saying that the medical and surgical care given in VA Hospitals is superb—in my opinion, the best anywhere in the world."

Gen. Gray said the Veterans' Administration is at work on plans for the new 750-bed VA hospital in this area, but the site has not yet been selected. This new hospital will be a $15,000,000 project and he thinks it may be ready for occupancy in 1952. It will supplant Lawson Veterans' Hospital.

He called attention to the immensity of the business of the Veterans' Administration—205,000 employees and a budget of $6,000,000,000 a year to look after the interests of 18,850,000 veterans. In addition, he said, it operates one of the largest insurance businesses in the whole world.

Gen. Gray will spend today and tomorrow at Fort McPherson and Lawson General. On Friday he will visit the Atlanta VA offices at 105 Pryor St. Then he will leave for the VA hospital at Dublin, going from there to Augusta.

During World War II Gen. Gray directed the American military railways in the European theater. He is a Past President of the American Society of Military Engineers.

Big-Gun Barrier Set for Canada?

HALIFAX, N. S. — (AP) — The Halifax Mail said yesterday Canada's East Coast, stripped of its artillery defenses after World War II, "soon is to be refortified with new, long-range, radar-equipped guns to meet the threat of war."

Old forts in the Halifax area, practically abandoned in the last few years, "are to be rehabilitated and re-equipped with coastal artillery on a scale bigger than ever," the newspaper said.

Kirkwood's Bell, Useful and Good

By BILL BORING

If when you die you return to this earth in an inanimate form, as some have supposed consider the role of a bell.

Bells never die and most I have known have been engaged in something useful and good. Take a bell which the people in the Kirkwood section long have known and loved to hear.

Years ago when Atlanta was just a big country town, its cry was one of alarm. Swung from a crossbar, it was rung by someone in the community whenever there was a fire.

As systems changed, the bell passed from one community service role to another. First, it called the children to school. Then, for many years now, it has been calling the members of Kirkwood Methodist Church to Sunday and midweek services.

Sunday it will peal forth in notes which will be joyous indeed to the people of Kirkwood Methodist Church. It will be calling them to worship in their beautiful, sturdily built new shrine.

For 25 years members of the Kirkwood Methodist Church have been hoping, planning, praying and paying for the handsome new $150,000 edifice which they will dedicate Sunday, the Rev. Henry T. Smith, Pastor of the Church, tells us.

There have been many trials and tribulations. The 1,200 membership is proud to admit that there's not a rich man among them. But steadfastly they have kept their eyes on the goal and so today they have one of Atlanta's finest churches in which to worship. Six hundred individual cushioned seats, a new console organ, a new piano, a handsome pastor's study, choir-robing rooms for both men and women, indirect lighting. They'll march into it Sunday morning, from the old wooden structure, with pride and gratitude.

A HUNTER STREET WINDOW SIGN: "STAMPS—With a Smile. . . ."

ATLANTA VIGNETTE: When the big bay horse pulling the bakery wagon clop-clops into the Capitol Homes section there's joy in the children's hearts. They all gather round, scrambling for "first ride" on the horse's back. The driver will hoist one tot to the horse's back and he or she will ride to the next stop. Then it's someone else's turn.

PATRIOTS: "In memory of Captain Frontis Hood Smith, Motor Transport A. E. F., Motor Supply Train 418th Corps; born Nov. 1, 1885, died at Blois, France, Oct. 22, 1918; burned in Aisne, France . . . And his son, Lieutenant William Evans Smith, 8th Air Force, 91st Bomber Group, 401st Bomber Squadron; killed in action over Germany, Nov. 5, 1944; buried in Cambridge, England."—An inscription on a double headstone in West View Cemetery.

King Hands Parliament Steel Nationalization Call

LONDON—(AP)—King George VI gave to Parliament yesterday his Labor Government's demand for public ownership of the iron and steel industry.

Crown and State called forth all the pageantry of a thousand years of history, giving hundreds of thousands of chilled spectators their first view of a full-dress royal opening of Parliament in 10 turbulent years.

The King donned jewelled crown and robes of ermine like the kings in fairybooks. His Royal Guards, ahorse and garbed in glinting armor, rode knightly vigil ahead of the King and his Queen in their state carriage.

Field guns cracked a royal salute.

The King and Queen walked hand in hand under the ancient oak beams of the House of Lords and seated themselves on the twin thrones.

Quietly the King read off his 12-minute speech from six pages typewritten on gold-edged paper.

What the King himself thought of the legislative program he proposed was unknown. The speech was written by his Ministers, as all royal speeches to Parliament have been for more than a century.

Winston Churchill and his Conservative Party, however, were quick to raise their objections to this first official move to take over steel—the last big remaining step in the Labor plan to socialize British industry.

Conservative chieftains decided to attempt an amendment to the King's speech, "deploring" its inclusion of steel nationalization. Passage of the amendment—equivalent to a vote of censure—would force Prime Minister Attlee's Government to resign.

The King's speech specifically stated: "A measure will be laid before you to bring under public ownership those companies extensively engaged in the production of iron ore, or of pig iron or steel, or in the shaping of steel by a rolling process."

'WOULDN'T FIGHT, EITHER'

Reds 'Gigantic Bluff,' Gen. Arnold Asserts

SONOMA, Cal.—(UP)—Russia is attempting a gigantic bluff against the United States and the Western Allies, but is "not ready to fight, doesn't want to fight and won't fight" if her bluff is called, Gen H. H. "Hap" Arnold told the United Press yesterday.

"I've been away from Washington now for a couple of years and I may be slightly off the beam, but that's my considered opinion," the war-time Chief of the Army Air Forces said.

Arnold was asked what positive steps the Western Allies might take in the present situation.

"Why not take a motor convoy and push it through the corridor to Berlin," he replied. "Perhaps we might have learned something from George Patton's technique. If Patton were running the show, he would take it through."

Asked what the Russians would do if an armed Allied convoy did push through to Berlin, Arnold replied, "Not much, if anything."

Arnold, now technically retired and raising white-faced cattle on his Rancho El Feliz in California's Valley of the Moon, still maintains an office at the near-by Hamilton Field Air Force installation.

"We need today the same courage of conviction we had when we marched into Berlin," the white-haired general said.

"It would be a grave and basic error to let the Communists bluff us out in the present deadlock in Germany.

"They are not ready to fight and they do not want to fight. We should curb the national tendency to be in awe of the Russians, an awe amounting almost to fear. If our people will take the time coolly to analyze what Russia does and does not possess militarily, America will be greatly heartened. . . ."

Cafe Owner Held in Killing At Phenix City

COLUMBUS — (AP) — Clyde Yarbrough, Phenix City cafe owner, was under police guard at Memorial Hospital last night on a first degree murder charge in the early morning fatal shooting of Benjamin F. Ray, a former welterweight fighter, Russell County Sheriff Ralph Mathews, Jr., reported.

Phenix City police said Ray, 40, of 1418 Eleventh Ave., Columbus, died on arrival at the hospital shortly after 2:30 a. m., following a fight over a drink. Police said Yarbrough shot Ray in his (Yarbrough's) cafe, located a few yards from the Fourteenth Street bridge.

Sheriff Mathews said Yarbrough, a one-time admitted lottery ("bug") operator, fired two bullets into Ray's body—one striking in the lower abdomen and the other just below his heart. Ray was shot with a .38 short pistol, the Sheriff said.

Yarbrough was admitted to Memorial Hospital shortly after the shooting, suffering with what police said was a broken nose and bruises about the face.

Phenix City Police Officer William H. Golden said he was on duty across the street from Yarbrough's cafe when the shooting occurred. He said he heard two shots, jumped from his automobile and saw a man he later identified as Ray run out of the cafe and turn back into the building.

The officer said he heard three more shots after Ray had run back into the Bridge cafe. Ray fell into his arms on the sidewalk after the last shots were fired, Officer Golden said.

Jekyll Offers Golf Now; Bathhouse Completed

Nine holes of the 18-hole golf course have been opened at Jekyll Island, and Winter tourists are flocking to the island park at the rate of 100 a day, State Parks Director Charlie Morgan said today.

A bathhouse casino on the beach side of the island has been completed, Morgan said. The casino includes a dance hall, snack bar and locker rooms.

Five hundred persons visit Jekyll Island each weekend, and the daily attendance averages 100, the Parks Director reported. Marsh hen hunting and fishing are the most popular sports in the Jekyll Island vicinity. Two hundred hunters visit the marsh areas near the island daily.

Golfing is free on the sand dune course. Work is underway on the remaining nine holes.

The State Parks Department has begun distributing 50,000 well-illustrated color folder maps of Georgia's Parks.

Towns Urges Main for Sandy Springs

Commissioner-elect Jack Towns last night urged Sandy Springs residents to sign up for metropolitan water service so their community can "blossom and bloom like a rose."

He maintained that the new service would bring automatic increases in population, increased property valuations, and lower insurance rates.

Subscribers have until Nov. 10 to sign up for the water project, being offered by the City of Atlanta and Fulton County. The community lacks approximately 100 of having the necessary 200 applications to launch the project.

The proposed main would run to Sandy Springs from a connection with the Bell Bomber Plant main on the new Marietta Highway. New taps on the main would each cost $260.

The Sandy Springs Service League sponsored last night's meeting, held at Hammond School. League President C. E. Conkin presided.

New Pump, driven by the engine, shoots out oil with increased force, because of special spiraled chambers
New Turbine, attached to drive shaft, transmits driving force to rear wheels
New Supercharging Assembly, not found in any other car, controls force and direction of oil between pump and turbine, builds up "torque" as required, so that no gears ever need to shift through the whole range of driving

Inside Story of DYNAFLOW DRIVE

THERE'S one thing about Buick engineers. They go whole hog on any job they tackle.

So they figured that there was only one way to go at the idea of using oil for transmitting power—and that was to go the limit.

That meant making oil do all the work that shifting gears used to do—and do it better.

It meant giving you a pickup that's really a pickup, when you step on the gas.

It meant developing a smooth flow of power through every stage of driving, without lag or bobble.

It meant perfecting a unit that gives good braking on downgrades—and a car that stays put when you park.

How well they did their job is summed up in one fact:

As soon as motorwise newspapermen got their hands on a Dynaflow Drive,* they called it "the biggest advance since the self-starter."

What goes on inside the tightly sealed drum of oil which contains this marvel is shown in the picture above.

But what goes on out on the road is far more important.

You have a command of the car that's too wonderful for words.

You feel a "sweetness" about the whole ride that some folks think is even more thrilling than freedom from shifting.

You can start, stop, start again. You can cruise. You can sprint. You just feed gas and steer, through the whole gamut of driving experience—and never lift hand from wheel except for parking or backing.

Fact is, you don't know what's going on in the automotive world till you've sampled this Dynaflow Drive. Why not see us now? Or better yet, take the first step toward having one of your own. We'll be glad to book your order, with or without a car to trade.

*You get Dynaflow Drive, at extra cost, on Roadmasters only.

Magazine of the Air To Feature Atlantans

By RITA VAN PELT

It was all wrong and it couldn't possibly be worked out with any degree of success—this merger that violated nearly every rule laid down by the so-called marriage experts. Yet, despite reverses almost too numerous to mention, the matrimonial bark of a certain Atlanta couple has sailed into smooth waters . . . so smooth, in fact, that today they win an award for their marital success over WCON-ABC.

. . . And so it happened that Mr. and Mrs. James Cain, of 163 Battery Pl., N. E., Atlanta, are in New York to appear on the Betty Crocker Magazine of the Air at 10:25 this morning to tell how Mrs. Cain (formerly Anne Fitzgerald) happened to be nominated as the "Ideal Homemaker of the Week."

D'Orsay Does It Again

Remember Fifi D'Orsay, sprightly musicomedy diva? She's on the Herb Shriner Time over WAGA-CBS this p. m. at 5:45 at which time she'll revive some of her famous tunes.

Statesmen Feature

Have you heard WCON's new team of spiritual singers? Hovie Lister tells us they're going to feature their top tenor, Bobby Strickland, in one of the South's favorite spirituals today. It's "Just a Closer Walk With Thee." The Statesmen are on weekdays at 6:45 a. m. and 1:15 p. m. and are really worth tuning in for.

Bingsday Banter

Bing Crosby will salute San Francisco's Gay Nineties Period with a rollicking comedy sketch in which he will be joined by William (Father) Powell, Peggy Lee and William Gargan. Bing and suave actor Powell will play dashing young blades who have se. their minds on capturing the hand of Miss Lee—WCON-ABC at 10 tonight.

Radio Signals Reaching Earth From Dark Star?

CANBERRA, Australia — (AP) — Dark stars which give no light, probably because they are cold, seem to be emitting radio signals.

The evidence for this discovery was reported yesterday in a statement by John J. Dedman, Minister in charge of the Council for Scientific and Industrial Research.

These mysterious radio beams, he said, are similar to the radio noise that comes from the sun. But they come from points in space where there are no visible stars.

The exact point of origin of these radio signals is in the constellation Cygnus. They point strongly, he said, to the possibility of a new type of star which emits radio waves, but no light.

Radio-Astronomy picks up the radio waves coming from space, in wave lengths ranging from about about one inch to 50 feet.

Five persons standing near the coffin were killed.

Milkmaid's Paradise No Stoop, No Squat

WEDNESDAY, OCT. 27, 1948.

Suggestion of the day: Make a note to attend the great face-lifting at Baxley, Ga., on Nov. 3. The Georgia Baptist Children's Home farm will be transformed into a conservation farm between sunrise and sunset. About 75,000 guests are expected.

MODERN MILKING MAGIC

If you haven't been present at milking time at one of the modern milking parlors you have missed a great experience, especially if you had worked in an old-fashioned dairy or milked the family cow back on the farm. It is so different.

The cows are washed carefully while they are getting their last bit of concentrated feed and then the gates of the milking parlor open and the first three cows enter the gates. Each cow knows her own apartment and goes into it readily.

While the attendant is waiting for her the teat cups are given a final sterilizing in steam and then rinsed in cold water. When Bossie enters, the gate is made fast with a lever, the udder is washed in warm water, the vacuum machine turned on and the teat cups attached. The milk begins to flow into a glass container which is hung on a set of balancing scales. When one cow is through, the milk weight is noted on the chart, the gate is opened and Bossie walks out. The next cow enters and the process is repeated.

When the container is filled, the milk is pumped over a cooler and into the bottling machine and on into the bottles. The whole process is completed without anyone's hand coming in contact with the milk.

Down at the Experiment Station, near Griffin, where we spent a day, there is an additional feature in the milking parlor. The attendant stands on a level approximately five feet lower than the cow's udder. Thus, the cow is milked sans stoop and sans squat.

It's quite a treat to attend the performance.

We pack in a lot of performance on the 6 a. m. and 12:45 p. m. Yellow River Farm program. Maybe you would like it. WCON at 55.

$428,000 SHORT OF GOAL

Chest Workers Set Progress Check Meet

Atlanta Community Chest workers, doggedly trying to make up a $428,000 deficit in their 1948 campaign, will meet here today to report progress.

Solicitors from the Business and Professional and Public Employees' Divisions, scheduled to get together today at 12:30 p. m. at the Luckie Street YMCA, hope to see combined donations move a lot closer to the $1,465,544 goal.

Workers in the Individuals' and Women's Divisions will meet at the same time and place tomorrow, and Commerce, Industry, and Finance Division volunteers will meet Friday.

The campaign was to have ended last Thursday, but when a "final" report meeting that day found the drive almost 30 percent short, workers volunteered to continue plugging away to make up the deficit.

"We can't let Atlanta's Red Feather agencies down," Leo S. Gilbert, Campaign Chairman, explained. "Too many people depend on those services."

Red Feather contributions may be mailed to Chest Headquarters, P. O. Box 1038, or pledges may be telephoned to WAlnut 3671.

Public To Air Views On 'Greater Atlanta'

By HERMAN HANCOCK

Atlanta and Fulton County citizens are invited to present their views on the creation of a greater Atlanta at a public forum set for 7:30 p. m. Wednesday, Nov. 3, in the City Council Chamber.

Sam McKenzie, a member of the Board of Directors of the Junior Chamber of Commerce and Chairman of the Forum Committee, said 92 business, professional, and civic organizations and interested citizens are invited to present their views on what should be done to form a greater Atlanta.

Members of the Fulton County delegation in the Georgia Legislature will hear the discussions and attempt to formulate some program based on the information they receive.

Sen. Nominate Roy LeCraw said the discussions will be the voice of the public regarding creation of a greater Atlanta, adding, "we should evolve some workable plan as a result of the discussions."

Muggsy Smith, Jess Walton and Luther Alverson, recently nominated Fulton Representatives, also will be present.

"The forum is an attempt to get some reaction as to how the people of Atlanta and Fulton County feel about the creation of a greater Atlanta," McKenzie said. "We have heard about one-government, about taxing zones, about annexation and other plans. We invite anyone having any plan to write it down briefly so it can be filed for permanent reference and study and to talk briefly on it."

LeCraw hailed the impending forum as a "step in the right direction."

Doctor Convicted Of Wife Slaying In West Virginia

WELCH, W. Va.—(AP)—Dr. W. Richard Stevens, flushed from hiding when betrayed by his smooth white hands, was convicted of second degree murder yesterday in the slaying of his wife.

A jury required but an hour to reach its verdict. Testimonly lasted five days.

Judge G. L. Counts deferred sentence until after arguments are heard on a new trial motion. The conviction calls for a sentence of from five to 18 years imprisonment.

Stevens was a coal company physician at nearby Bartley and his attorneys sought to show the 28-year-old doctor was temporarily deranged at the time of the shooting last April 19.

There was testimony he had been working 16 to 18 hours a day, drinking at least a pint of whiskey daily, and using drugs. He testified his wife had gone to see a lawyer the same day about a divorce.

Mrs. Evelyn Patterson of Columbus, Ga., a sister of Mrs. Stevens, testified her brother-in-law told her he was miserable and unhappy in his marriage and was "going to fix things."

Stevens fled to Pikeville, Ky., and got a job as carpenter at a coal mine. The other workers became suspicious when they noticed his smooth white hands and turned him over to police.

No Klansman McGill--Despite Barbecue Lure

Ralph McGill is not a member of the Ku Klux Klan.

This word came yesterday from his associate, Jack Tarver, in a talk before the Atlanta Civitan Club.

"When M. E. Thompson first made his charges, I dismissed them as ridiculous," Tarver told the Civitans. "But when the subject of barbecues was dragged into the controversy, I must confess I began to doubt. I knew that if McGill had ever bartered his birthright, it would probably have been for a mess of barbecue.

"However," Tarver added, "I have made a conclusive investigation and now am able to state authoritatively that McGill is not a member of the Klan . . . I called the Atlanta Tent and Awning Company and have their definite assurance that they have not made him any robes."

'TWO-TIMING DOESN'T PAY'

Wife-Slayer-Suicide Warns 'Chicago Girls'

CHICAGO—(UP)—The letters of Edward J. Jaskot, 50, who loved and lost, informed womankind yesterday that his wife's murder and his suicide were a lesson that "two-timing and cheating does not pay."

Jaskot's body was found in a water-filled bathtub in a Loop hotel room Monday. He had shot himself in the head. He had been sought for the slaying of his estranged wife, Ilene, 22.

Jaskot left several letters, admitting he killed his wife and detailing his reasons.

One letter was addressed "To the Chicago girls:"

"May this murder be a lesson to all of you," it said. "Two-timing and cheating does not pay . . . Ilene lived with me a life of pretense ever since we became married . . . Yet in spite of all this I do love her until I die and always will."

In a letter to a six-year-old daughter by a previous marriage, Jaskot said, "I can hardly endure to kill myself. You are such a well-mannered and a very sweet child."

But in writing to Police Lt. John Canning, Jaskot was formal and reserved.

"I, Edward J. Jaskot, carefully and deliberately planned to shoot and kill my young and adorable wife, Ilene B. Jaskot.

"It is a long story. I have loved and lost. Ilene gambled with her life and she also lost.

"As ye sow so shall ye reap. All I ever got from her was headaches and heartaches."

Ask the woman who owns one

By tradition, she's entitled to the last word. So Packard has built it for her!

She might not care whether what's under the bonnet is a "free-breathing" straight eight, or a turbo jet.

But when she praises delightful responsiveness, and the soothing smoothness of Packard power . . . we like it! (What man ever put so dainty a shoe against an accelerator pedal and got such results?)

She might not care whether Packard's superior roadability and handling ease are achieved by advanced engineering, or by happy little gremlins.

But when she tells us that her Packard has the restful riding ease of a limousine, and the finger-tip handling of a tiny tot's stroller . . . we beam!

And when it comes to styling, and tailoring, and convenience features, she's always been the No. 1 authority—and New York's Fashion Academy confirms her good judgment in preferring Packard.

Come in—learn all the reasons why the most enthusiastic "man who owns one" is often a woman!

Crisis at University of Georgia

Chancellor Raymond R. Paty, in joining a committee of Regents to request an additional $1,000,000 for the State University from Acting Gov. M. E. Thompson, brings into the open the crisis existing at the University—a crisis which cannot but deepen as the months go on.

Veterans are completing their courses. Their numbers steadily are decreasing. They have brought into the University fees totaling about $1,000,000 annually, the amount of money now requested. If the University is to remain accredited, an average of $150 per student must be spent on instruction. The fees from veterans enabled the University to improve its instruction facilities. Now they are leaving. But, the number of students not paying Federal fees is increasing.

We are up against an old problem—lack of income for education in a State which has a high birth rate and in which more and more persons properly are determined their children must be adequately equipped to cope with a future in which no crystal-ball peering is needed to realize that more and more technical education will be required.

Chancellor Paty will retire Nov. 1. Chancellor Harmon Caldwell, incoming Gov. Herman Talmadge, and the State Legislature must keep in mind that to each belongs a share of the load that must be carried. More education, more services, more care for the sick, the old and the blind have been promised.

Let us not come to the January session of the Legislature and pretend surprise or dismay at the size of the problem.

The need is there for all to see and for those responsible to make plans to meet.

A Career Man Rewarded, If Only Temporarily

Capt. J. Q. Davis, Commander of the State Patrol, having seen the handwriting on the wall and resigned to enter private business, Lt. W. C. Dominy has been named the Patrol's acting director.

Even though we realize that the appointment will probably prove merely a temporary one, we are gratified. For Lt. Dominy, according to press reports, has been with the Patrol since its organization. He has seen a half-dozen commanders come and go with the changing winds of politics. Had the patrol remained the non-political entity it should be, with promotions made on individual merit rather than on the basis of patronage, Lt. Dominy or a man of his type would have long since been named the permanent director.

We regret that the spoils system is yet tolerated by the people of Georgia. We regret that important departments such as Public Welfare and Public Safety cannot be directed by such competent career men as Bill Ireland and Lt. Dominy.

Georgia pays dearly for the lack of job security and the inefficient operation which are part and parcel of entrusting multi-million-dollar departments to the guidance of political hacks.

Brazen Plans by the Soviets

One must associate the twenty-seventh use of the veto in the United Nations by the Soviet Union with the recent announcement the Soviets plan to remove all troops from their zone of Germany, save a garrison in the city itself and another east of the city "to protect communications between the zone and Russia."

This decision will be timed with the creation of a German "Republic," Soviet version, for all Germany and the pressure will then be put on the Allies to pull out their troops and leave the whole of Germany open to Soviet political penetration.

The Soviet withdrawal of troops, and the plan to ask all other nations to withdraw, is typical of the brazen Soviet methods.

They will withdraw troops, except from two cities.

But, they will establish a police force of 400,000 men. This police force undoubtedly will be a good half million, since a secret police, not in uniform, of at least 100,000 will be an integral part of it.

Therefore, while the Russians are moving out one force, they are putting in their most effective peacetime force—a political police department. Their police always have operated as a part of their army and of their political procedures. Yet they will, with customary gall, piously prate of withdrawing troops.

They count on the American people to get "tired" of paying the bill to keep our forces there. And we may if we do not have in the Administration in Washington those who keep their eyes on the international objective—the holding of our lines, established with so much blood and materiel, until we do the job.

Veto of a resolution offered by the neutral members of the UN on the Berlin crisis was certainly an abuse of the veto power and a use of it never intended by the thinking which created the UN framework. The illegal blockade does constitute a threat to peace. The UN vote against the Soviets plainly showed the moral weight was against the blockading power.

Marxism advocates the use of power and force as political weapons.

Moral values, unless backed by power, cannot stand up against the Soviet methods.

Therefore, let the American people realize that we are in an expensive, exasperating, dangerous fight, short of war, to demonstrate the morality and the strength of our way of life.

Good Men for State Jobs Are Scarce

The deadly siren—Georgia politics—is seeking to lure more good men to her as a new gubernatorial administration gets organized with its young leader expressing hopes for a "new day" in statesmanship. With many job-hunters filling his offices with claims for rewards for carrying precincts in the Democratic primary, Gov.-Nominate Herman Talmadge gazes over their heads and says it is very difficult to find men to fill important State offices.

He means good men. He says he is trying to persuade successful businessmen to leave their own businesses and take State jobs at a low salary. Talmadge, who favors economy in State government, says the salaries paid for important posts are too low—and he apparently believes it would be wiser economy to pay more and get better qualified officials.

Politics being what they are in Georgia, however, few businessmen are willing to risk going over to the State Capitol for a brief service to their State. For one thing, they risk vilification from the opposing political faction. But, for another thing, observers note that it is nearly impossible for a Georgian to take one sip of politics and then quit this drug. Good men have entered State government in the past to do a good job and quit, only to deteriorate from statesmen and workers into politicians.

The halls of the State Capitol are filled with such tragedies today. Already sitting in the lobby of the State Capitol as time nears for a change in gubernatorial administration are persons who at one time during the past quarter-century held a State job and are standing by hoping to get on the State pay roll once again. Many could get jobs elsewhere—probably better jobs than they could wrangle out of the State—but they can't get politics out of their blood. Some men who were bowed and scraped to when they were members of the General Assembly with power to raise and lower State appropriations have dropped into the class of political job-hunters.

There can be no incentive for career men and women to enter State government as long as the spoils system exists. If Talmadge makes all his new appointees bear the deep brand of "Talmadge," they can expect to be replaced when an anti-Talmadge administration comes into power again. The Gov.-Nominate points out that he will have relatively few State jobs to offer his supporters in a spoils system, however. He has promised to cut 2,500 employees off the State pay roll in an economy drive. With that task before him, Talmadge's administration will be, as he says, one of firing rather than hiring.

It is hoped that Talmadge is successful in bringing into the State government outstanding persons who will make financial sacrifices to aid their State. It is hoped, too, that Talmadge will put the road-building program on a basis of need—operated on a long-range basis by a board removed from gubernatorial politics, and that his plan for putting the State Patrol on a merit system will mean the State police will be used only on the highways and be as free as possible of politics.

Of all the people in State government today, those who have no worries and go about doing their full day's work from one gubernatorial administration to the next are those people who are employed through the State merit system. They include employees of the State Labor Department, Health Department, Welfare Department and Veterans Education Council.

I magnify mine office.—Romans 11:13.

You and I are too close to our work to see it in its true perspective. It is often so saturated with details and small routine that it appears to us as paltry. Just at this point we need to be careful. If we offer ourselves to God, consecrate to Him all that we are and do, we need not be discouraged. This is true, that no one will esteem our ministry if we do not. Ours is the exacting role of giving self fully, freely to duty and privilege without conceit, but with such faith that the glory may be God's alone.

RALPH McGILL

King Farouk Is the Most Uneasy

Two years ago I went to Palestine.

I flew down from the gaunt, stark ruins of German cities and people to Rome, to Athens and to Cairo. I stayed a while, trying to analyze and understand what had happened in the time that had passed since I had seen these places in the year before—the last year of the war. (It is difficult to believe the war has been over for three years.)

Palestine was something new. Here, too, were tanks and guns, soldiers and tension. It is an old tension. The smell of centuries is in it. It has been there since the days when it was a Roman colony and news of a baby's birth was circulated and the cynics asked, "Can anything good come out of Nazareth?"

But also in Palestine was a new force and a new tension—that of the Zionist colonists and industrialists. True, even then the word Zionist had come to be split into many factions and meanings. They were fighting among themselves. There were the "Extremists," "The Moderates" and the ultra-Conservatives.

Doubts Dispelled I stayed two days in Jerusalem and then went out to visit and spend my greatest time on the Jewish farms. I saw, of course, the amazing city of Tel Aviv and learned to like it. I liked, even better, Haifa, which had grown from the old Arab city far up on the rocky reaches of Mount Carmel. I saw and visited many of the little villages, some half Arab and half Jewish—some all Jewish or all Arab.

I went there with doubts. I had believed I might find simply a vast WPA, or perhaps a great philanthrophy. I came away a partisan, perhaps nearest the "moderate" designation. I have remained one, patiently and firmly believing that the people I saw would win. And, also, that they ought to win. I was moderate enough to be willing to accept partition, without believing it would solve things. It would be the beginning.

I believed this because the people I saw were wonderful. They were farm people and they were, I am convinced, the nearest thing to our own pioneers in the log cabins and the fortified towns that a man might see in our time. I never had the slightest doubt but that they would fight and win, unless the whole might of the Middle East was thrown against them.

A King's Fear When the fighting started almost a year ago I put down what I believed. It was that if Egypt really chose to put her whole army and air force into it; if the eagle-eyed old Emperor, Ibn Saud, chose to put all his men in the scale, and if the force of Lebanon and of Syria were employed, the only first-rate fighting force in the Middle East—the Arab Legion of Trans-Jordan could take such a force and win. I did not believe they would be able to organize and I predicted the army of Israel would win.

Egypt's Farouk needs an army at home against "trouble" which a king must always fear. And the fighting man of Syria, of Lebanon, of Iraq, of Saudi Arabia and of any other Middle Eastern country, is not eager to die. True, to die for Allah is a pleasant thing, leading to soft carpets and women with soft curves and wine and for eternity, but nevertheless, death is death. But greater even than this fact was the deterring element of suspicion and fear which each Middle Eastern ruler wears as he wears his clothes.

So the Arab Legion tried—and for the record let it be said it fought bravely and effectively—to take the lead and do a good job. It had no help. It learned to curse and hate the Egyptians and the men from Syria, Lebanon and Saudi Arabia as much as those of Israel.

Now the Jewish Army, with a truce in effect, is in a fine strategic position. It has captured Beersheba, a major town on the road from Egypt to Jerusalem. It has thus isolated the Egyptian troops in the north and also the chief Egyptian coastal-held town of Gaza.

Farewell To Feudalism It may be now that Abdullah, of Trans-Jordan, will play his trump card and make a deal with Israel. If so, it will give to the new state the territory now held, with slight variations. Trans-Jordan will get a portion of Palestine. Israel will get most of the desert section, Negev, with the rich mineral sources of the Dead Sea.

Egypt's army was badly beaten in the seven days of fighting before the truce—a fact the remainder of the Arab World will note well. I would guess that of all the uneasy heads that wear a crown, that of King Farouk is the most uneasy. His was the greatest Arab nation. His was the worst defeat. Ahead of us, I think, is a major shift in Middle Eastern history and the beginning of the industrial revolution in that feudal region of wretched, exploited peoples.

BILLY ROSE

His Footwork Helped, Too

If you sit around Lindy's long enough, and if you have enough toothpicks to prop up your eyelids, you're a cinch to eventually see everybody who's anybody in show business. And so I wasn't too surprised a few weeks ago when 28 thespians walked into this bagel bazaar and, without even looking at the menu, ordered strawberries and cream.

I had never seen these actors before and, noticing that they were being chaperoned by Sam Leve, the stage designer, I eased over to where he was sitting and asked him about them. He told me the 28 were members of the Habimah Theatrical Company, the venerable Palestinian drama group which recently toured the States with a repertoire of such old Yiddish folk favorites as "The Dybbuk" and "The Golem."

Players As you probably know, the Habimah is one of the world's great repertory companies—right up there with the Old Vic and the Abbey Players—and the present troupe is largely composed of veterans of the fighting in the Holy Land. As Sam explained it, they were celebrating their country's successful revolt by acting out the tag-line of Willie Howard's famous soap-box sketch—"Comes the revolution, you'll eat strawberries and like it!"

The stage designer asked if I'd like to meet any of the actors and offered to translate. I motioned toward a good-looking young fellow whose left arm was off at the shoulder.

"Introduce yourself," said Sam. "He probably speaks better English than anyone in this restaurant."

When I asked the actor to tell me about his arm, he smiled. "I lost it fighting for the British against Hitler," he said. "But it's really not much of a loss. You see, up to that time I had trouble sleeping nights—never knew where to put my arms. Now I sleep like a baby—on my left side."

"How'd you happen to take up acting?" I asked.

"Well," he said, "while I was in the hospital I worked up a parody of 'Johnny One-Note,' and one the strength of it, got myself assigned to an entertainment unit. The words were pretty funny, and by the time we reached the Elbe, everyone was calling me 'Old Johnny One-Arm!'

"When the war was over, I went to Jerusalem—I was born there, you know—and when I heard the Habimah was getting ready to do 'The Dybbuk' again, I applied for a part. In the second act there's a scene where the bride dances with the beggars and cripples of the town, and I knew they couldn't refuse me. I was—what do you call it?—a 'natural.'

Matter of fact, there are lots of things I do better now because of the missing arm. Take soccer, for example. In soccer, you know, it's against the rules for anyone except the goalie to touch the ball with his hands, and a player has to be careful not to foul. Well, I only have to be half as careful as the other players."

"The one arm must have kept you out of the scrap with the Arabs," I said.

Spy "In a way, it got me in," said the actor. "The Hagana used me as a spy because I know several Arab dialects and because the empty sleeves made it possible for me to put on a convincing performance as a beggar. When the fighting was going on in Jerusalem, I used to carry messages to and from our men who lived in the Arab-controlled quarter."

"Did you ever get caught?" I asked.

"I wouldn't be here if I had," said the performer. "The Arabs only suspected me once, and then the missing arm saved me. In the early days of the fighting, I was ordered to contact one of our leaders, but when I reached his house, he wasn't there. I found his wife and child in the cellar trying to hide from the Arabs who were making a house-to-house search.

"As I was about to leave, I heard somebody banging on the front door, and then the sound of the door being battered down. A minute later a big Arab tribesman came down the cellar stairs with a flashlight, and when he started to open the door where the woman and child were concealed, I jumped out of a bin where I was hiding and tangled with him. While we were fighting, the woman and child slipped out of a back door and escaped, but I wasn't so lucky.

"I had no sooner flattened the Arab than half a dozen of his buddies rushed in and grabbed me. I pointed to my scratched-up face and explained that I had been trying to protect their colleague from a Jewish mob, and then pointed in the opposite direction from that taken by the woman and the child.

"At first they didn't believe me, but then one of them examined the unconscious Arab and said, 'No beggar with one arm could do that much damage,' and they all set out in the direction I had indicated."

"Nice going," I said, "but how did you manage to knock out the Arab?"

Johnny One-Arm grinned. "In soccer," he said, "a fellow learns to use his head and feet quite a bit, and so when the tribesman came at me, I butted him in the stomach and then did the rest of the job with my feet."

"As the French say, la savate."

"As you Americans say," said the actor, "I knew I could lick this guy with one arm tied behind my back."

Georgia Finally Have Enough?

The Republican Party is attracting considerable support in Georgia at this time.

Openly, that is.

Georgia is the only State in the Union which has never gone Republican.

Officially, that is.

Herbert Hoover nearly carried the State in 1928. But that was due to a coalition of powerful forces, including the prohibitionists and the bootleggers.

Actually, of course, we have had some Republicans in Georgia for a long time, but not many admitted, much less professed it.

In fact, I used to wonder why the Georgia GOP didn't adopt the ground hog, rather than the elephant, as its symbol, seeing as how it functioned as an underground.

But the Republican Party is not only now meeting in the open, but also occasionally from lack of room indoors. Indeed, if the Georgia GOP keeps growing, Mr. Dewey may find himself in the unprecedented position of not having to go outside the State to fill post office vacancies.

THE PULSE OF THE PUBLIC

The Constitution welcomes letters on either side of any subject. They should not exceed 200 words and must be signed, although names will be withheld on request. We regret none can be returned. Address all letters to Editor Constitution, Atlanta, Ga.

Under Same Cover?

Editor Constitution: Mr. McGill is beside himself when he so bitterly denounces States' Rights Democrats.

He has long advocated a strong two-party system for Georgia and he has put the finger on the Truman Democrats as one of them.

Well, let's pull back the cover and see what we find in the bed with Truman: The first thing we see is the Communist-dominated CIO snuggled up close to him with both arms around his neck. And the CIO?—It pulls no punches in its effort to demoralize all industry. One strike is hardly settled before it pulls another. Even when my sons and yours were on the firing line it pulled strike after strike in industries where vital materials for the prosecution of the war were being manufactured and not only until Hitler jumped on Stalin did they settle down to work in earnest. And in a war with Russia they will pull for Russia against our country. Then, we will find the Northern Democrats under the cover with him—men who miss no opportunity to humiliate the South.

Defense of Contests

Editor Constitution: Ralph Jones occasionally comes up with a column in which he gives the good old raspberry to the contests, which at present are filling the air, newspapers and magazines at a rate which leaves one dizzy and breathless.

Now Mr. Jones' lament belies the fact that he is not interested in winning any one of the wonderful merchandise prizes offered by sponsors, all of which can be converted into ready cash in the market place.

In the first place one must have the right attitude to win, converting mental energy into hard work, enthusiasm and a genuine effort to give the sponsor new and different advertising ideas, which is what he pays for.

Recent figures given by a nationally known contest judge had this breakdown, which she says is by no means unusual. Of the first 1,000 entries received: 140 neglected to enclose a qualifier, (box top, etc.) 200 broke other rules, 550 duplicated ideas and words, which left 110 for actual judging. Maybe Mr. Jones' entries didn't even make the final judging for some of the reasons given! CONTESTANT.

Landmark To Be Lost?

Editor Constitution: In Oxford near the campus of Old Emory College there stands in simple and classic dignity an old wooden chapel-church. It is a landmark known and loved by Georgians as Old Church. This old church has seen 100 years and more of church history parade past its doors. It has seen years of war and years of peace. Such great men as L. Q. C. Lamar, Judge Longstreet and Ignatius Few have labored here and great men and lesser have graduated here for it was in this church that graduations for Emory College were held prior to 1910.

It is a beautiful ante bellum church standing in the midst of ancient trees and architecturally interesting from its louvered steeple where hangs its iron bell to its massive panelled twin doors. There are large and many-paned windows hung with enormous blinds. To the original structure wings have been added forming a cross.

This is the old church referred to by Alfred M. Pierce in his recent book, "Giant Against the Sky." In this book Bishop Candler is quoted as saying of Old Church and the cemetery: "It answers to Georgia Methodists as Westminster Abby does to the English people." Bishop Candler thought "It ought to become the care of Georgia Methodists and be preserved through all time to come." In another place in the book Bishop Candler expresses the opinion that more great sermons have been delivered here than in any other building in Georgia.

The church was dedicated on June 23, 1841 and 100 years later Bishop Candler was buried from it on Sept. 27, 1941.

Now Old Church is being offered for sale by the Town Council of Oxford. Why? A 99-year lease to Emory College expired in 1941 and the property reverted to the township of Oxford. The church again needs some work, for nothing has been done since 1932, but the little town of Oxford cannot repair it and keep it up. They would rather sell it than see it travel the long road to decay and dust.

The deadline is Oct. 30. Won't someone save Old Church?

The Covington Chapter, UDC, which has members from all of Newton County, along with other clubs, especially the DAR, Womans Club and Garden Club, are putting forth a plea that Old Church be restored and kept as one of Georgia's historic buildings.

For Democrats

Editor Constitution: Are we going to allow bull-headedness, ignorance and prejudice plus Republican campaign funds to "sell us down the river" into another depression to make the rich richer and the poor, poorer. In a lifetime's memory of Republican administrations they have always run true to the above form. Democrats unless you make the GOP pay you well for it, don't throw away your vote. It will not profit the South in any way to do so.

Not Typical Navy

Editor Constitution: As an ex-Wave, I'd like to answer the letter in The Constitution of Oct. 21, regarding the conversation "A Reader" overheard in connection with the service of women in the Navy.

I appreciate her attitude, and would like to give her this thought—that the high officials of the Navy took a vigorous stand on the question of making women a permanent part of the regular Navy when it was pending in Congress. Adm. Lewis E. Denfeld, Chief of Naval Operations, made this statement before the House Armed Services Subcommittee on new legislation (this statement is taken from a Navy publication issued to Naval personnel, both reserve and USN): "The Navy has requested this legislation only after careful study of the over-all requirements of the Navy, now and in the future. The services of women are needed; their skills are as important to the efficient operation of the naval establishment during peacetime as they were during the war years."

We who served as Waves during the war period are proud of the record we made. Among those who know, it speaks for itself and needs no defense. The efficient male naval officer is glad to recognize the over-all efficiency of the Waves—while, the inefficient one is merely demonstrating his own shortcomings, including lack of self-confidence, when he belittles the contribution of women in the military service of our country.

One-Party System In South Is Breaking

WASHINGTON—The current breakaway from President Truman in the South almost certainly marks the beginning of the end of the one-party system which has dominated that section politically since War Between the States Reconstruction days. In the words of one veteran Democratic United States Senator from the far South: "The Supreme Court knocked the main beam out from under the one-party structure when it compelled admission to Negroes to Democratic primaries and Mr. Truman's civil rights faux pas set the whole shebang on fire"

The motive of the one-party system was "white supremacy" and from that standpoint its effectiveness certainly is on the wane. In varying degree, Negroes now are voting in all Southern States, and in half of them—Virginia, Tennessee, North Carolina, Texas and Arkansas—there is very little obstacle to Negro voting that does not apply equally to white citizens. Georgia and Florida are approaching that status and in South Carolina, until recently the most restrictive State of all, the system for exclusion of Negroes politically appears to have cracked wide open—35,000 of them voted for the first time in a Democratic primary last August.

The three States in which Negroes still are mostly disfranchised are Mississippi, Alabama and Louisiana, but even in those the last-ditch white supremacy advocates are woefully lamenting that the "good old days" are almost gone.

The most prophetic manifestation in the South right now may be the fact that the recently enfranchised Negroes almost all age for President Truman. On that account there is a clearly discernible tendency of whites not only to turn to either Dewey or Thurmond this year but to consider the possible necessity of banding together to offset concentrations of Negro voting in future.

But this change in status of the Negro is by no means the only factor working toward dissolution of the one-party system. Beginning before World War I there has occurred a great shift in Southern population. Large numbers of Negroes moved North to take industrial jobs that previously had gone to immigrants. And latterly there has been a great influx—of white population coming into Southern States—notably, Texas, Florida and North Carolina—from the North.

Reduction in number of Negroes, proportionate to whites, has lessened fear of Negro domination. And the Northerners coming into the South are accustomed to the two-party system and many of them are Republicans.

Most important of all, perhaps, economic conditions in the South have greatly improved. In place of an excess of Negro labor, there is a pressing demand for workers, Negro or white. Negroes have gravitated from farm to city, with a consequent greatly increased wage scale. By radio, moving pictures and other means, Southern people are being knit much more closely with other sections of the country.

Talking to editors of a score of leading newspapers of the South, I did not find one who was not disgusted with the working of the one-party system and doing his level best to get rid of it.

This desire to smash the one-party system is one of the main reasons why a majority of big-city newspapers in the South are supporting Gov. Dewey.

In common with most other Southern elements, these newspapermen are bitterly resentful of President Truman's proposal to exert Federal compulsion to end racial segregation and other discriminations against Negroes, as practiced in the South.

But Southern editors also dislike the Dixiecrat movement, which The Atlanta Constitution characterizes as "a dead-end street . . . as harmful to the American two-party system as the Wallace third party."

The Dixiecrats, says The Constitution, should "adjourn as a fourth party of vanity and ambition and say: 'We want to defeat Harry Truman. Therefore we will support Thomas E. Dewey.' . . . Let us protect ourselves and the nation with the two-party system. Don't throw away our vote. Make it count."

The one-party system may not die easily. It probably will be shaken off in some States before others, but its end is on the way.

THE QUESTION:

Why do most people wait until the last minute to do their Christmas shopping?

THE ANSWERS:

JUNE PINSON, 910 Ponce de Leon Ave., N. E., clerical work—Well, I guess they just wait around, sort of because they don't have time, or they think they can do it better at the last minute. I do some of mine before the Christmas rush and then, some that I don't get to, I do at the last minute. The stores offer about the same thing early in the Christmas season—the same as they would later in the season.

MARGARET SHIRLEY, 362 Arizona Ave., N. E., saleslady—It's just like everything else. We all like to shop early, but we always put it off. Mainly, because we don't have the time, that's the main reason I put off shopping. Just like I am, now, in a big hurry. I haven't made any plans, yet, for buying my gifts this year.

FRANCES HARRIS, 838 Ponce de Leon Ave., N. E., clerk-typist—I think they dread it, mostly. It's such a job running through all the crowds. They don't want the children to find out what they're getting for Christmas. I think, if parents do their Christmas shopping early, the children peek around and find out what they're getting. I get very few Christmas gifts, but I do start buying them about a month before.

MRS. MARGARET TUCKER, 424 S. Main St., College Park, Ga., schoolbus operator — Well, money could be one thing—and a lot of people like to be in the crowd, I think. People just enjoy being jostled around in a crowd. Neglect—waiting until the last minute to do what should be done earlier in the year—is just one of many reasons. I will start now, and keep on until the last shopping day. In fact, I did do one little thing today.

A Radioactive Defense Line

WASHINGTON—Sooner or later, and probably sooner, a decisive question must be answered. It is simply this: Can Western Europe, with American help, be placed in a posture of defense, despite the vast preponderance of manpower at the disposal of the Kremlin? One fact may well have an important bearing on the answer to this question. That is that the experts are giving serious attention to the defensive potentialities of the radioactive by-products of atomic fission.

The basic facts are simple. Atomic fission has made the mass production of radioactive material possible. If a soldier (or any one else) is exposed for a sufficient length of time to this radioactive element, he becomes a casualty. At first, he feels no ill effects. Some hours later, he begins to vomit. Subsequently, his pores begin to bleed, and if he has been sufficiently exposed, he dies.

FROM THESE facts, it is possible to jump to all sorts of startling—and incorrect—conclusions. Indeed, an idea worthy of the most excitable writers of "science fiction" has been quite seriously discussed. This scheme called for a sort of radioactive Maginot line across Western Europe, perhaps from northern Germany to the Alps, to prevent an advance of the Red Army to the West.

For all sorts of reasons, the atomic energy experts consider this fantastic concept almost certainly impractical. But very serious attention is nevertheless being paid to the less spectacular possibilities of radioactive defense. The object is, of course, to find some way to use this by-product of atomic fission to deny vital ground to an aggressor.

If this object is achieved, the implications are obvious. The greatest weakness of the Red Army is transport—during the last war the Russians depended very heavily on American-made trucks. Under any circumstances, in case of war, the task of transporting and supplying the Red Army from bases in distant Russia would be immensely difficult. It requires no acquaintance with top secret documents to understand how these difficulties could be multiplied if important centers of communications, crossroads, bridges and, above all, railroad marshalling yards, were even temporarily denied to the invader. And any area sufficiently impregnated with the radioactive by-product of atomic fission would of course become, at least for some time, a death trap.

Yet it is important to understand the limitations of the radioactive defense. In the first place, of course, there is the "problem of dissemination." The deadly radiation makes no distinction between defender and aggressor. Planes capable of distributing the atomic by-product and at the same time protecting the crew would have to be designed, or some other method of dissemination found.

This could probably be done—the Atomic Energy Commission's David Lilienthal has already announced that planes powered by atomic energy are now known to be practicable. But even if the problem of dissemination were solved, the radio-active defense would not be a total defense.

It would not, for one thing, be a permanent defense. Heavy rains over a period of time on an area impregnated with the atomic by-product would greatly reduce radioactivity, and under any circumstances the radioactive effect slowly weakens over a period of time.

Moreover, there is a close correlation between the deadly effects of radiation and the length of time of exposure. Lead sheets under trucks or tanks would give some protection and so would the distance of a soldier from the ground. Men in such vehicles, traveling at top speed, could probably cross a considerable radio-activated area without becoming casualties. That is one reason why marshalling yards, where men must work for long periods of time, would be an obvious target for the radioactive defense.

FINALLY, the ingenuity of the Red Army experts would certainly be brought to bear to find some counter-measure. The deadly radioactive material would cover only the surface of an area. If the surface were removed, perhaps by specially protected and specially equipped squads working for very short periods at a time, a passage might be forced through a radioactivated area.

Georgia Is Losing Workers

Despite the fact that the nation's population has increased by about ten million persons during the past few years, Georgia's population has increased by only about one percent. Since the birth rate in the State is two or three times higher than the death rate, it would seem that people are leaving the State at a rapid rate, or else there would be a great increase of population instead of only one percent.

At that, Georgia is better off than some of the other Southern States, including Mississippi, which is losing native sons at a rapid rate.

Why are Georgia people leaving the State, and where are they going? And what class of workers are leaving?

THOSE who are leaving the State may be divided mostly into two classes—first, the technical-minded college graduates who are finding better opportunities for employment in their lines of work in other States; and second, industrial farm workers, particularly wage and tenant farmers, who are being thrown out of jobs by greater mechanization of farmers.

During the past few years, there has been an unceasing movement of tenant farmers both white and colored into Florida. Yet we hear of no dire farm labor shortage, possibly because of mechanization. At present about 15 cotton pickers are operating in Georgia, and no doubt more will be used in the future. This machine in itself will throw field workers out of jobs.

The answer to keeping both technical college students and the farm workers is greater industrialization for the State. More industries will need more college trained engineers, and will at the same time provide jobs for displaced farm workers.

We might as well face it—our State is in a process of economic revolution. Either more industries must be provided to furnish jobs for the technical college graduates and the one-time farm workers, or the state is certain to suffer a decline in population.

About the McGill-Thompson Exchange

(Savannah Morning News)

While it may be true that the written and spoken words of our esteemed contemporary, Ralph McGill, of The Atlanta Constitution, "like so many nimble and airy servitors, trip about him at command," as Milton once said of an ancient philosopher, his style is usually so crystal clear that one can at least understand what he is saying or writing.

It is puzzling, therefore, that Acting Gov. M. E. Thompson should have put him down so wrongly regarding the Ku Klux Klan.

In his Louisville interview Mr. McGill declared that "thoughful Georgians thank God it (the Klan) is led by a man of the caliber of Doc Green because I do not think he has the ability to make it a dangerous force."

There is no circumlocution in that, but Mr. Thompson seized on it as meaning that our friend Ralph had indulged in a bit of praise for Grand Dragon Samuel Green of the Ku Kluxers.

One reason it is so difficult to understand how M. E. could have gone so far astray is that he has been in Atlanta for many months now and he must have given attention occasionally at least to Ralph's writings on The Constitution's editorial page, accompanied by a picture of the editor, which though it is a far cry from his Vanderbilt days, is nevertheless not an unpleasing likeness of 1948, A. D.

If our Governor had resorted to a perusal of Ralph's writings along with his breakfast coffee he could not have failed to discern that the Klan in Georgia has no more eloquent foe than the gentleman, and that at every opportunity he has attacked it with his full arsenal of adjectives, sparing no punches and refraining not from mentioning names. And we believe all fair-minded citizens will honor him for it . . .

But, having said all this, we do wish Ralph would cease his obvious, definite double-talk on the two-party system in the South, and practice what he preaches by coming out for Tom Dewey!

It hardly seems in character for a man who can hit as hard as he can against the Klan to choose to sit on the fence in a matter as vital to his fellow citizens as the Presidency of the United States. How about it, Ralph?

(Marietta Journal)

It is a little surprising that Acting Gov. M. E. Thompson decided to take on Ralph McGill in a verbal duel.

The recent campaign must have left Mr. Thompson's nerves more shattered than anyone thought.

M. E. has already taken one licking this year and it's hard to understand why he decided to take another. It must have been a spur-of-the-moment thing, caused by some venom in his make-up which no one knew was there.

For all of a sudden this week Thompson lashed out with a ridiculous charge that Editor McGill had publicly praised the Ku Klux Klan leadership of Grand Dragon Samuel Green.

From that point, the going got rough. McGill came right back, saying the charge was "completely and utterly false," which of course it was, and charging that it came from the Governor's "characteristic maliciousness and littleness."

Thompson's outburst came after McGill made a speech in Louisville in which he stated that thoughtful Georgians thanked God that the Klan was led by a man of the caliber of Doc Green because "I do not think he has the ability to make it a dangerous force."

McGill, in his reply to the Governor, added the soothing statement that he had thought Mr. Thompson had attained the ultimate in stupidity in his recent campaign but "I find that I have underestimated his capacity for asininity."

This affair is no doubt Thompson's swan song in Georgia politics. He is retiring soon to Valdosta and the voters doubtless will see that he stays there.

It's too bad, though, that he has added this episode to his record. Anyone who knows Ralph McGill knows that he has fought the Klan for years and that there is no foundation whatever for Thompson's charge that he had acted as an apologist for the Klan or offered flimsy excuses for its actions.

JONATHAN DANIELS

Is Truman Turning Back the Tide?

(In Raleigh News and Observer)

The biggest news in the United States today is that, out of what seemed the Democratic doldrums and the probability of Democratic defeat, Harry Truman has made the effective beginnings of a trend which may make political drama in the United States. There are, of course, those who think this trend comes too late. There are plenty of people who, after waiting 16 years to beat the Democrats, hope it comes too late. Harry Truman does not think so.

And after watching both the man at work and the amazing reception which he received, I am convinced that he has already turned the probability of defeat into the excitement of a horse race.

Some remarkable things have happened in the last three weeks. One of them may be that, increasingly, Harry Truman has made it obvious to the almost incredible crowds which have greeted him that this is not merely a campaign for the re-election of Harry Truman.

This 8,000-mile whistle-stop and roaring-city procession became clearly the new campaign of a revitalized Democratic Party . . .

Increasingly also the trip has meant not only the reindoctrination of Democrats with enthusiasm. It has also developed increasing signs of the sense of crusade for the masses of the people regardless of party which was the great force behind Roosevelt and the New Deal.

Of course, some of this grows from the fact that American liberals have no other place to go except to the Democratic candidate. The growth of enthusiasm for Mr. Truman among such people may indicate the proportions of the disintegration of the Wallace forces in most of the States.

The fact is, however, that some labor forces which have seemed to be giving Mr. Truman only perfunctory support now show a rising excitement for him among the rank and file as well as the leaders. And even farmers in the traditionally Republican Middle West have shown signs of worry, which they have translated into increasing inclination toward Mr. Truman, because of indications that the Republicans may tamper with, if they do not destroy, the farm program of the New Deal. . . .

Those people who said that the Rooseveltian revolution for a new deal for the people was a coalition which could not be kept together after President Roosevelt was gone may find themselves very much mistaken. There is, as all the huge crowds indicate, a great affection for Harry Truman as a man even among many Americans who do not regard him as a great man or great President.

But this new trend has taken place as Harry Truman has put the emphasis of his campaign upon the traditional liberal purpose of his party. He may have become President by accident, but today he is clearly and increasingly the candidate who has accepted in its fullest meaning the liberal Democratic cause and is prepared with tirelessness and tenacity to fight for it. . . .

Put it down first: It is very easy to like him very much. Even big crowds can feel that. There is an unpretentiousness and a warmth about him which accounts for the real affection for him which on this trip millions of Americans felt and showed. Sometimes among his associates and assistants he is almost too gently modest, but at the same time ready to make up his own mind and stick to it.

That stubbornness is a part of his courage. In this campaign he has been surrounded by a press and radio constantly saying, and saying for months, that he had no chance of re-election. He does not believe it. And so far as it is possible he does not mean to let that happen.

Of course, as a man he wants to be re-elected. But he is fighting for a good deal more than that. He believes in his heart and not merely in his speeches that this is one of the great election campaigns in history. He has the faith that the 16 years of Democratic rule in America have represented the triumph and the efforts of those who meant to make America a land of security for the masses of its people.

He thinks that an American government increasingly effective for the people is essential not merely for the general welfare in the United States, but for American security in the world. And he believes firmly that any program of reaction in this country, such as would certainly be provided by the Republicans, would endanger faith in democracy everywhere in a world in which militant Communism is making glittering promises to confused people.

In our world the important battle is not between conservatives and liberals in the United States, but between effective democracy and advancing Communism. The President believes that the really important thing he is fighting for is not his election but the continuation of government by an effective liberal Democratic Party in the United States and for peace and freedom in the world. . . .

"Who manages my estate?

. . . John and I agreed years ago on the Fulton as executor and trustee—"

There are many such widows in greater Atlanta today whose minds are free of the worry and anxiety of financial management problems because husbands placed the responsibility of administering their estates in the competent hands of the Fulton National's Trust Department.

Management of an estate is not an easy task, especially for the unprepared and inexperienced. No matter how large or how small your estate, do your loved ones the favor of naming the Fulton National as executor or co-executor and trustee.

Ask one of our Trust Department officers to discuss the matter with you, at no obligation.

Now Tech Has Three 'Dream' Backfields

One learns something new every day—and from the strangest sources.

The latest startling knowledge is the fact that Georgia Tech has not one, but three "dream" backfields on its football squad this season. That's right, three of 'em.

The source of this information, strangely enough, is not from Mr. Chick Hosch, the Tech publicity man whose job it is to get people talking about the Yellow Jackets, but rather from the Duke University tub-thumpers.

"Georgia Tech's undefeated Yellow Jackets will field probably the finest array of backfield talent ever to appear on a North Carolina gridiron when they meet Duke's Blue Devils here Saturday," said the latest release from Durham.

". . . Tech has no less than three dream backfields, and followers of the Georgians have developed headaches trying to decide which is the best."

Whew! Although folks around here realized they were watching some pretty fair ball carriers and passers in Tech uniforms, few of them suspected what they saw was this good.

"Yea," said Bobby Dodd, "we have three dream backfields, all right. We dream about them scoring when they get near the goal line."

Graves Is Key The Duke release is similar to most estimates of the Yellow Jackets this season, typical in that it overlooks a very important part of the Jackets and the fellow who makes it click—Tech's defense and Line Coach Ray Graves.

While Tech's offense is tops in the Southeastern Conference, so is its defense.

"Graves did it," said Dodd. "He sets up 90 percent of our defensive formations and you can see how well they have worked."

Ray came to Tech in 1947 after Bob Woodruff had taken over the head man's job at Baylor. Folks around here had a vague recollection of Graves as Tennessee's center and captain several years ago. But they knew nothing of his coaching ability.

But Dodd did and he signed him to a contract. The result has been most pleasing and Ray is rapidly developing the reputation as one of the country's best line coaches and prospects for a head coaching job.

Incidentally, Graves' abilities don't start and end on the football field. Since being at Tech he has become one of the best convincers of high school stars in the league, especially in his home State of Tennessee.

Remembers 1947. While the experts are figuring Tech safely past the Blue Devils this Saturday—they are giving 12 points—Bobby Dodd isn't falling for the trap.

"You remember the game with Duke last season," he said. "Well, it ended 7-0 and I was glad when it ended. Duke has the same squad back, more experienced and deeper at all positions.

"The only guy they lost is Mulligan, a wingback. They still have Folger.

"No, sir, we are being lured into peaceful slumber. Everybody knows Duke is twice as tough in Durham."

Somebody suggested the Blue Devils' record wasn't very impressive.

"Nope, it isn't," Dodd admitted, "but I expected their opposition has been somewhat tougher than ours."

Anyway, the game looms as the nation's No. 1 attraction. Bill Stern will air it coast to coast on NBC and many of the nation's top writers will be on hand.

So will I, providence permitting.

Wolverines Hold Lead In AP Poll

NEW YORK—(AP)—With Michigan and Notre Dame running 1-2 among the nation's gridiron leaders for the second straight year, the other all-victorious outfits probably are wondering what they have to do to convince the experts that their records are just as good.

Mighty Michigan strengthened its position as top team in the weekly poll of the Associated Press after hurdling Minnesota, 27-14, Saturday for its nineteenth straight triumph and fifth this season.

Notre Dame was returned to second place by the consensus, which also lined up the next five clubs in the exact positions they held a week ago, although all sport spotless records.

Michigan landed the No. 1 spot on 117 of the 206 ballots cast, compared with 74 out of a possible 148 first-place votes last week. North Carolina received 46 votes for third place, an increase of 14, but remained in third place behind Notre Dame, which drew only 19.

Georgia Tech, which crushed Florida, 42-7, stayed in the sixth slot and received only one first-place vote, despite its 5-0 record. Pennsylvania got no first-place votes after its narrow 20-14 triumph over Navy but clung to the No. 7 spot.

Missouri and Northwestern stepped up one notch each to eighth and ninth places, respectively, although each has been beaten once, and made room for all-victorious Nevada.

The point score with first-place votes in parentheses (points figure on basis of 10-9-8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1):

1. Michigan (117) 1,885; 2. Notre Dame (19) 1,615; 3. North Carolina (46) 1,568; 4. California (13) 1,239; 5. Army (4) 1,214; 6. Georgia Tech (1) 929; 7. Pennsylvania 505; 8. Missouri (1) 386; 9. Northwestern, 325; 10. Nevada (3) 297.

The Second 10: 11—Southern Methodist, 257; 12—Penn State (1), 176; 13—Clemson, 125; 14—Oregon, 82; 15—Minnesota, 78; 16—Oklahoma (1), 64; 17—Michigan State, 61; 18—Georgia, 53; 19—Tulane, 51; 20—Baylor, 45.

Others and their point scores: Texas 45, Duke 36, Ohio State 29, Mississippi 19, Wake Forest 12, Cornell 8, Kansas 7, Vanderbilt 5, Virginia 5, Appalachian 4, St. Bonaventure 3, William and Mary 3, Princeton, Iowa, Tennessee, Illinois and Rutgers, 1 each.

Willie Pep Nears End of Bout Prep

HARTFORD, Conn.—(AP)—Featherweight Champion Willie Pep boxed two rounds with Jackie Weber yesterday as he neared completion of his training for his title fight Friday night. Pep, of Hartford, meets Sandy Saddler, of New York in a 15-rounder at Madison Square Garden.

LEADS BLUE DEVIL ATTACK—Fred Folger, Jr., 175-pound Duke senior, will be the top Blue Devil threat against undefeated Georgia Tech Saturday in Durham. Folger was the third best punter in the Nation last year and was named to the Southern Conference All-Star team. In addition, he rushed for a 3.4-yard average and completed 28 passes for 383 yards. He was also named the "most valuable player" on the 1947 Duke eleven.

Boudreau and Gordon Land on All-Star Team

By RALPH RODEN

NEW YORK—(AP)—The Cleveland Indians and the Boston Braves, rivals in the last World Series, each gained two berths on the Associated Press' 1948 major league All-Star team.

The remainder of the dream squad is composed of two players each from the St. Louis Cardinals and Boston Red Sox, and one each from the New York Yankees and New York Giants.

Manager-Shortstop Lou Boudreau and his keystone partner, Joe Gordon, are the Indians on the squad. Third Sacker Bob Elliott and Pitcher Johnny Sain are the Braves' representatives.

Of the 10 men selected by 220 experts polled by the Associated Press, six are holdovers from the 1947 team. The incumbents are Gordon, Boudreau, Elliott, First Baseman Johnny Mize of the Giants, and Outfielders Ted Williams of the Red Sox and Joe DiMaggio of the Yanks.

No player was an unanimous choice. Williams, the all-star left fielder and American League batting champion, and Stan Musial of the Cards, National League batting king, drew the most votes, 212.

Musial's votes were scattered over three positions. The Card star drew 195 votes for right field, five for center and 12 for first base. Musial won a berth on the 1946 team at first but missed out last year.

DiMaggio won the center field berth in a breeze. The Yankee Clipper gained 210 votes, third highest among the 63 vote getters. DiMaggio, Williams and Musial comprise one of the greatest hitting outfields ever put together. the trio socked 105 homers and drove in 415 runs.

Boudreau easily won the shortstob berth, polling 209 votes to seven for Vern Stephens of the Boston Red Sox who was second. Gordon beat out Boston's Bobby Doerr for the second base job, drawing 108 votes to Doerr's 81.

The experts also gave Mize the first base berth by a commanding margin. The NL's home run co-champion drew 118 votes. Tommy Henrich, transplanted outfielder of the Yanks, finished second to Mize with 32 ballots.

The writers were split in their choice for third base. Elliott nosed out Detroit's George Kell for the berth, 45 votes to 40. Ken Keltner of Cleveland had 36 and Bob Dillinger of the St. Louis Browns 34.

Birdie Tebbetts of the Red Sox was selected as the all-star catcher. The peppery backstop gained 82 votes in beating out Cleveland's Jim Hegan, who polled 50.

Sain and Harry (The Cat) Brecheen of the Cards were selected as Tebbetts' batterymates. Sain collared 140 votes to be named the righthander of the stellar team. Bob Lemon of Cleveland was next with 60. Lemon's teammate, Bob Feller, drew only 10 votes.

The battle for the lefthanded slot was closer. Brecheen, a 20-game winner, gathered 90 votes to 80 for Detroit's 21-game winner, Hal Newhouser.

The vote:

Tech Stresses Air Defense As Passing Battle Looms

By GEORGE TISINGER

Duke was in the air yesterday all over the Georgia Tech practice field. One could feel the tenseness of the preparation grind for the first big game of the stretch drive scheduled up in Durham Saturday.

But Duke wasn't the only thing in the skies over Rose Bowl Field. There were numerous Yellow Jacket passes flying around, too, as the Tech people stropped their offensive weapons for the knifing to come.

It wasn't long after reporting time that the Techs split up into three groups. Two were composed of backs and the other of linemen as Freshmen and Redshirts threw Blue Devil air and ground plays at the defensive-minded Yellow Jackets.

They've realized what coaches have been telling them and that is that the Devils are going to unload everything they have in a major offensive aimed at the Jacket goal line. And the Jackets weren't doing too badly at a lot of the strategic defense points yesterday.

When their defensive field work was over, they took the other side of the line and put on one of the most rousing pass practice sessions railbirds have witnessed in many a day at the Flats.

They literally threw dozens of aerial plays at the dummying defenders with everybody in uniform tossing some kind of an air bomb.

In fact most every back on the field threw something in that practice, even though a lot of them more than likely won't even see the light of day during game action.

All the participants yesterday were in full gear with the exceptions of Halfbacks Rumsey Taylor and Bobby North and Guard Ewell Pope.

North injured his right arm in a tackle last Saturday against Florida, and Pope and Taylor are taking it extra easy with bruised legs.

North was much the more active of the two, taking part in the full speed work. However, the other pair merely tested out their hurt legs and did light work .All three were in sweat clothes.

Coach Bobby Dodd said that he expected all three to be ready for action in Durham Saturday, but that Pope and Taylor were not able to get any practice with the others this week.

The only other injured performer is Gene Frizzell, reserve center, who is quite deft at linebacking. He's out with a broken hand, still in a cast, and coaches wish he was ready.

Some light-heavy contact work is on tap for today and the team and party will leave Thursday night by rail for the scene of the battle.

Duke Has Trouble With Tech's 'Dazzle'

DURHAM, N. C.—(AP)—Duke's Blue Devils went through a spirited defensive and offensive drill yesterday as they got down to hard work preparatory to Saturday's headliner with Georgia Tech.

Coach Wallace Wade sent his backs and linemen into separate groups for a concentrated look at Tech's razzle-dazzle, and the Blue Devils had plenty of trouble with some of it.

Jimmy Knotts, standout guard, was added to the list of injured when he missed the drill because of a minor ailment.

Fred Folger, Billy Cox, and Paul Stephanz were in uniform, but did not take part.

Bulldogs Impress In Defensive Drill

By BOB CHRISTIAN

ATHENS—Georgia's Bulldogs wound up the bigger part of the week's rough work yesterday afternoon with a lengthy scrimmage in preparation for Saturday's clash in Birmingham with the Crimson Tide of Alabama.

Emphasis was placed on defense as the Bulldogs worked until dark for the second successive day. When it was all over the showing was impressive enough for the coaches to remark, "Well, they looked fairly good today. At least, it was an improvement." The over-all picture was much brighter than last week when the Georgia defense did only a mediocre job in stopping Miami.

Yesterday the big red linemen smeared Alabama formations time and again. Only once did a yearling back break through the varsity line for any considerable yardage as regulars alternated with reserves.

Delta Air Lines will run a special flight to the Georgia-Alabama football game in Birmingham Saturday. The plane, a DC-4, will leave here at 10:45 in the morning, arriving in Birmingham at 10:30 (Central time). It will leave for Atlanta at 6:15 (Central time) and arrive here at 8:03 Saturday night.

Downfield blocking was the highlight of the short offensive drill which preceded the defensive scrimmage. Paths were cleaned with vicious blocks as Halfbacks Lukie Brunson and Eli Maricich sliced off the longest runs of the afternoon.

The line backing situation is back at full stdength with Al Bodine again teaming with Center Joe Jackura and Fullback Cliff Hopp. Bodine injured his knee in the Kentucky game Oct. 9.

He missed the LSU game and was used only for a few plays against Miami.

Co-Capt. Weyman Sellers, used only sparingly in the LSU tilt and left at home last week, also took part in the scrimmage. An examination yesterday morning revealed that the big Albany flankman may be able to see more duty this weekend. He has been suffering from the recurrence of an old back injury.

Barring further injuries, the Bulldogs should be at near top physical condition for the Tide. Only reserve centers Steve Vernarsky and Gerry Deleski remain on the injured list. Deleski has been working in sweat clothes but Vernarsky, who injured his knee more than two weeks ago, still is an onlooker from the sidelines.

Short Signals—All three touchdowns scored in the 1947 Georgia-Alabama game were on plays covering more than 80 yards. . . . In their past four meetings, the Tide and Bulldogs have alternated wins. Georgia won in '44 and '46; 'Bama in '45 and '47. . . . Quarterback John Rauch, ball handler de luxe, has already scored as many points in five games this Fall as he did in 12 outings last year. . . . With the schedule at the halfway mark, Halfback Eli Maricich has intercepted enemy passes in all but the LSU game. . . . Sophomore Gus Hlebovy, missing several teeth since the LSU game, took part in yesterday's drill, wearing a cage to protect his mouth. . . . Frank Lipski was the only frosh to make any sizable gain against the varsity defense.

Alabama Opposes Georgia Offensive

TUSCALOOSA, Ala.—(UP)—Alabama continued to work against Georgia offensive formations yesterday as three Tide varsity teams scrimmaged against freshmen.

Tide Assistant Coach Tom Lieb, who has scouted Georgia in its last three games, warned the 'Bamans that they must be ready for the "most dangerous team" they have played all season.

"Georgia can and will score from anywhere on the field," said Lieb, "and besides an excellent passer in Johnny Rauch, they have a fine running game."

Dick Bartell Out As Kansas City Pilot

KANSAS CITY—(AP)—General manager Lee McPhail, of the Kansas City Blues entry in the American Association announced yesterday that the contract of Dick Bartell, 1948 manager, would not be renewed.

At Alameda, Cal., Bartell told newsmen he "hadn't heard a word" from the club.

"It's funny they wouldn't let me know by mail or telegraph that I was fired before announcing it to the press," Bartell commented.

Nevada's Heath May Beat O'Brien, Sinkwich Marks

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR

NEW YORK—(AP)—Having virtually lapped his closest competitor, Sharpshooting Stan Heath, of Nevada, is set to shatter a 10-year-old collegiate forward passing record before the arrival of November.

Heath continued his blistering pace among the nation's gridiron aerialists last Saturday when he completed 22 of 32 passes for 287 yards and four touchdowns in leading the Wolfpack to a 65-14 triumph over Tulsa.

That gave him a total gain of 1,318 yards on completed passes alone and placed him head and shoulders above all the other passers in the statistics announced yesterday by the National College Athletic Bureau.

In five games—all of which Nevada has won to earn a place among the nation's 10 top teams—Heath has attempted 138 passes and completed 85 of them, 13 for touchdowns.

He now needs only 140 yards to break the national collegiate record for passing yardage in a single season, set at 1,457 by Davey O'Brien, of Texas Christian, in 1938 and tied by Wilson (Bud) Schwenk, of Washington University, at St. Louis in 1941.

After Oklahoma City Saturday, he still has to face Santa Clara, Fresno State and Wichita. If he maintains his present average of 27.6 attempts and 17 completed passes per game, he also will break O'Brien's 11-year-old record of 234 attempts in a season and the national mark of 133 completions, set last year by Charley Conerly, of Mississippi.

Although Heath's eight running plays this season have cost him a net loss of five yards, his total of 1,313 also gives him a commanding lead over all the others in gains from both running and passing.

That average of 262.6 yards per game, if continued through four more contests, should enable him to break the total offense record of 2,187 yards set by Frankie Sinkwich, of Georgia, in 11 games in 1942.

Heath's closest challenger in total offense is Lindy Berry, of Texas Christian, who clung to second place with 894 yards in six games. Berry has run with the ball 111 times and thrown 75 passes, making him the hardest working back in the country.

Fredt Wendt, of Texas Mines, strengthened his position as the leading ball carrier, meanwhile, by picking up 204 yards against New Mexico to boost his total to 832 yards on 78 rushes in five games.

Clyde Scott, of Arkansas, last week's runner-up, was idle Saturday, and slipped to sixth place. Johnny Papit, of Virginia, moved into the No. 2 slot, followed in order by Jackie Jensen, of California, Gil Stephenson, of Army, and George Thomas, of Oklahoma.

Behind Heath and Berry in total offense come Wendt with 859 yards by both rushing and passing, Charley Justice, of North Carolina, with 857, and Everett Vaunce, of Minnesota, with 693.

Heath's closest pursuer in the passing department is Jim Finks, of Tulsa, whose total of 693 yards on 55 completed passes out of 110 attempts is little more than half the figure compiled by the Nevada star.

The ten leaders in each department:

TOTAL OFFENSE (Gains Rushing and Passing)—Heath, Nevada, 1,313 yards in 146 plays; Berry, Texas Christian, 894 in 186; Wendt, Texas Mines, 859 in 84; Justice, North Carolina, 857 in 136; Faunce, Minnesota, 693 in 120; Finks, Tulsa, 675 in 140; Davis, George Washington 671 in 155; Cecconi, Pittsburgh, 666 in 124; Olix, Miami (Ohio), 663 in 79; Rauch, Georgia, 657 in 104.

RUSHING OFFENSE—Wendt, Texas Mines, 832 yards in 78 carries; Papit, Virginia, 581 in 64; Jensen, California, 554 in 58; Stephenson, Army, 546 in 89; Thomas, Oklahoma, 535 in 77; C. Scott, Arkansas, 500 in 63; Jones, Wyoming, 488 in 63; Stuart, Army, 480 in 77; Berry, Texas Christian, 460 in 111; Van Noy, Utah State, 440 in 77.

PASSING OFFENSE (Ranked on Total Completions)—Heath, Nevada, 85; Finks, Tulsa, 55; Thomaston, Virginia Military, 53; Walthall, West Virginia, 47; Van Brocklin, Oregon, 45; Boyda, Washington and Lee, 45; Southard, Georgia Tech, 44; Lambeth, Davidson, 39; Rauch, Georgia, 39; Nagel, UCLA, 37.

BULLPUPS PLAY SOUTH GEORGIA FRIDAY NIGHT

ATHENS — (AP)—The Georgia freshman football team meets South Georgia College of Douglas, Friday night in the Bulldogs' Sanford Stadium. Kickoff is 8:15 p. m., (EST).

The Bullpups lost their only other game of the season, 14-13, to the Auburn Baby Plainsmen.

South Georgia is coached by Wyatt Posey and Mel Bray, both former University players. The South Georgians defeated Tennessee Wesleyan earlier in the season, Tennessee's first defeat in junior college football in 10 years.

Indians' Don Black Back Home; Plans on Making Spring Training

CLEVELAND—(AP)—Don Black is planning on going to Tucson, Ariz., for Spring training with the Cleveland Indians.

"Maybe I won't make it all the way back, but if I can't stay in baseball as a player I'd like a job in it as manager or a scout," said the Tribe hurler, who is recuperating at home from effects of a brain hemorrhage.

Don came home Sunday after spending six weeks in the hospital. He didn't realize he had been so dangerously ill until Monday night.

"Joyce (his wife) had saved all the clippings for me," Don said. "I went through them. The headlines on the day after my accident said I was 'critical.' One said I was near death. I never realized that."

Don doesn't remember anything about his injury, which developed when he swung viciously at a pitch in the second inning against the St. Louis Browns Sept. 13.

"I don't even recall getting the assignment to pitch that game," Don said. "Fact is, I can't remember anything since the last Eastern trip I took."

Don has come back nearly all the way. Dr. Spencer Braden, the brain specialist, told him to expect memories to return in flashes, especially of his more recent experiences.

"That's the way it has been," admits Don. "Suddenly I'll remember something and wonder if I dreamed it. I always ask Joyce."

Don didn't become aware of his surroundings until three weeks after his injury. "I opened my eyes," he remembers, "and saw I was in a strange room. I thought the back of my head was wide open. I felt my head but couldn't find any hole."

Then he had agonizing headaches which now have disappeared almost completely.

He followed the Indians' progress through the final day of the pennant race and saw the World Series on a gift television set.

"I sent the boys a couple of telegrams, you know, the 'keep pitching' kind, during the last days of the season, and another during the series," he disclosed.

His greatest thrill was in Mgr. Lou Boudreau's remark after the playoff game against the Boston Red Sox: "We won it for Don Black."

He knows about the $40,000 collected for him though Don Black Night. "I haven't got the money yet," he explained. "Bill Veeck (Tribe President) is working it out with the income tax people."

At 159, Don now is 26 pounds less than his playing weight. His legs have become stronger, but he plans to stay at home reading and resting for the next few weeks.

Don said he wanted to thank everybody who sent in cards, telegrams and made phone calls, all those who sent in flowers and gifts "and all the nice people who prayed for me."

"I can't put into words how grateful I am. It's the most wonderful feeling to realize I had so many well-wishers pulling for me. I'm glad I'm a baseball player. In no other profession I guess, would I have been able to make as many friends."

Hugh Casey Predicts Second Division Finish for Brooklyn Next Season

NEW YORK—(AP)—Portly Hugh Casey, latest of the Brooklyn Dodgers to move over to Pittsburgh, predicted yesterday the Brooks won't finish in the first division next year.

The veteran relief hurler said Brooklyn Prexy Branch Rickey's youth movement has flopped and that it cost the Dodgers the 1948 pennant when Eddie Stanky was traded to Boston and Dixie Walker was sent to Pittsburgh.

"That youth stuff can be overdone," the 35-year-old righthander said in an interview at his Brooklyn tavern.

"Kids are great but you need tried competitors to close in on a pennant. If we had Walker's bat in the stretch and the drive and will to win of Stanky, we would have won.

"I can't understand yet how they traded Stanky. He was great out there, hollering and fighting. And don't think he didn't help us pitchers," Casey added as he listened happily to the tinkle of the cash registers.

"Stanky would come in and give you what for and wanted to know what you were doing all the time. Yes, if we had those two, a lot of those 3-2 and 2-1 games we lost would have been the other way around.

"This last Brooklyn team was different than any others I've seen in the last 10 years. They just weren't aggressive and hustle like Brooklyn teams always have . . . through the years.

"Why," said Casey, "they'd munch candy bars on the bench . . . laugh . . . and kid around. You don't win pennants with that approach to the game.

"The pitching was good enough to win. But we didn't have anyone to hit the fence. I can't understand it. I think even I could have hit those seats if I got 300 or 400 whacks a season like some of those fellows," Casey declared.

"The trouble is the Dodgers haven't any outstanding players among the new faces. Marv Rackley and Gene Hermanski were about the best of the outfielders. But with a few exceptions, like Peewee Reese and Jackie Robinson, most of them are about the same caliber. Fellows who can do things pretty good, but not outstanding."

Hughie said he was "very happy" about joining up again with such former Brooks as Walker, Vic Lombardi, Stan Rojek, Hal Gregg and Kirby Higbe.

"I'd talked to Leo Durocher and wanted to go with the Giants. But I couldn't resist the offer Roy Hamey (Pittsburgh General Manager) gave me.

"Dixie called me first and told me how fine it was with the Pittsburgh people and Hamey called me about eight times. When I didn't hear from Leo or the Giants, I gave in.

"'Come in with us, Hughie,' Hamey told me, 'We're going to win the pennant next year if we have to buy every ball player in the United States.'"

Big Battle in Making Out Decatur Way

By JESSE OUTLAR

The prep spotlight is focused on Decatur this week, where Decatur's Bulldogs risk their unblemished record against a determined and capable Griffin Gold Wave eleven.

Annually, this is one of the most bitterly contested battles on the Georgia high school scene. And this promises to be no exception.

These two foes just don't like each other as far as football is concerned. It seems that the boys run, block and tackle a little harder in this one. It's a real feud.

Then there's the coaching angle.

Jim Cavan, the Griffin head man, hails from Decatur and was quite a star for the hometown Bulldogs in his high school days.

Decatur's Charlie Waller is a Griffin boy. He also was a fine prep player.

Although they don't say so, both coaches probably want to win this one more than any other game on their schedule.

Mix these motives up with the fact that the Region Four championship may hinge on the outcome of this battle and you have the reason why there won't be any empty seats at Decatur Friday night.

What Has Happened

Now for a look at what has and may happen.

Griffin has won four games, tied one and lost to LaGrange in a thriller. Decatur has rolled over six foes in impressive fashion to remain unbeaten and untied.

A victory for Decatur insures the Bulldogs of at least a tie with LaGrange for the title. A defeat easily could mean they are out of the title picture.

Currently, both Decatur and LaGrange have slapped down three region foes. This is the last league game on the Decatur slate, while only Gainesville has any change of tripping LaGrange within the region.

And, of course, it's only the region games that count in the final playoff.

Superior Edge

Waller's boys, with backs like Pete Johnston, 190-pound sophomore, and Norman Stone and Courts Redford hold a superior edge over Griffin in the offensive department.

Griffin hasn't been able to find anyone to replace Pete Ferris and Earl Rowe, who played prominent roles in the Gold Wave's first victory in 10 years over Decatur last season. However, in Bobby Dunn and Bobby Banks the Wave has two fine ball carriers.

Up front things are about even. Perhaps Griffin has a slight edge, but there's little to choose between them. People like Center Red Roberts, Guard Charles Hopper and Tackle Don Stewart make certain that no one runs over the Gold Wave.

End Jim Harper, Guards Don Leslie and Frank Crawford and Tackle Aymond Cooper are equally rough in that Decatur forward wall. Ask any of the six Bulldog victims.

They'll shoot the works in this one. Because of Decatur's fine bevy of backs and the fact that they are playing at home, we like Decatur by at least one touchdown.

SCALPERS FACE FINES UP TO $500

BALTIMORE — (AP)—A municipal crackdown struck scalpers who were hawking tickets to the Navy-Notre Dame football game Saturday.

Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro signed an ordinance, rushed to passage Monday night by the City Council, which levies a fine of from $5 to $500 for each sale of a football ticket above its face value.

A near-capacity crowd of 57,000 is expected for the Navy-Notre Dame tussle and most of the tickets have been snapped up by the public through Notre Dame alumni groups and the Naval Academy. However, one Council member said that ticket brokers have about 4,000 and, if they could get what they were asking, would realize $100,000 on their sales.

Louis Arrives Today For Exhibition Here

By PAT ROBINSON

NEW YORK—(INS)—Joe Louis will fly to Atlanta today where he will open an exhibition tour Thursday which will take him into 16 cities.

The off-again, on-again heavyweight champion has a two-fold objective in making the trip. First and foremost, he hopes the exhibitions will net him at least $100,000 which should come in handy if his bankroll is half as depleted as so often rumored.

Second, he hopes to whip himself into shape so that he won't mind the grind when he starts training for the next defense of his title sometime next Summer.

Louis meets two opponents in Atlanta in three-round exhibitions at Morris Brown College's Herndon Stadium. He will feature a card which includes several of the South's top service boxers.

The Atlanta show gets under way at 8 o'clock Thursday night.

Most of his exhibitions will be four-round bouts but the champion said he will tackle Jimmy Bivins for six rounds in Cleveland.

He will go the same number with Arturo Godoy, the Chilean heavyweight whom Louis defeated in title fights and whom he will box again in Philadelphia where the tour closes Dec. 14.

Other cities on the tour include Memphis, New Orleans, Roanoke, Nashville, Lewiston, Me., Boston, New Haven, Chicago, Detroit, Cincinnati, St. Louis, Kansas City and Oklahoma City.

HONEYMOONERS FAVOR SUGAR BOWL

NEW ORLEANS — (UP) — The 1949 New Year's day football game in New Orleans should be called the "honeymooners' bowl" instead of the "Sugar Bowl," Fred Digby said yesterday.

Digby, general manager of Mid-Winter Sports Association, sponsors of the week-long Sugar Bowl carnival, said one out of every 20 ticket applications his office has received, comes from starry-eyed couples who want to mix their romance with football.

Digby said he already had received 150,000 applications for tickets. The newly enlarged Sugar Bowl will accommodate only 83,000.

Waivers on Mosley

PITTSBURGH—(AP)—The Pittsburgh Steelers, of the National Football League, yesterday asked waivers on Norman (Monk) Mosley, little tailback from Alabama, cutting the roster to 32. He came to Pittsburgh from the Philadelphia Eagles of the same League.

Yanks Sign Neun As Contact Man

NEW YORK — (AP) — Johnny Neun, former major league first baseman and manager in both the majors and minors, returned to the New York Yankees yesterday as a player contact man with the organization he served from 1932 through 1946.

In announcing the rehiring of Neun, who has managed both the Yankees and the Cincinnati Reds, the New York club said he also would do some "personalized scouting" within the major leagues.

A Yankee coach in 1944, 1945 and 1946, Neun stepped into the managerial post late in the 1946 season to replace Bill Dickey, who had taken over from Joe McCarthy only a short time earlier.

He went to the Reds as manager in 1947, being succeeded with the Yankees by Bucky Harris, but was replaced by Bucky Walters early in the 1948 season.

Net Stars To Play

NEW YORK—(AP)—Victor Seixas, Jr., of Philadelphia; Frank Parker, of Los Angeles, and Robert Falkenburg, of Hollywood, Cal., were granted permission yesterday to compete in the Argentine National Tennis Tournament.

GOVERNORS HONOR MACK

'Mr. Baseball' Lauded After 48 Years as Pilot

PHILADELPHIA—(AP)—"Mr. Baseball" accepted graciously yesterday the plaudits of the Nation's 48 Governors.

Connie Mack, owner of the Philadelphia Athletics, was presented a leather-bound book containing congratulatory letters from the Governor of every State on the completion of 48 years as A's manager.

The tall, 85-year-old gentleman of the major league diamond, his eyes twinkling, took the honor in stride.

"It is one of the greatest things ever to happen to me," Connie told Philadelphia's Mayor Bernard Samuel.

Samuel, who originated the tribute that took six months to compile, told Connie: "You have been a leading exponent of clean sports, and clean living, and the example you have set during your long and eventful career has been and ever will be an inspiration to the youth of America."

Here is what some of the Governors wrote:

Thomas E. Dewey, New York—"The name of Connie Mack stands for what is best in our national game. It stands not merely for winning teams but for sportsmanship."

James H. Duff, Pennsylvania—"In your teams you kindle a spirit of effort and victory. Even more important, you have helped kindle that spirit in American youth and you are an inspiration for boys."

Earl Warren, California — "I know that it must give you great satisfaction to review the progress of baseball during the long period in which you have given this sport the benefit of your leadership and counsel."

Dwight H. Green, Illinois—"Your distinguished career, your notable achievements and your leadership in a highly competitive field of sports have become one of our fine American traditions."

Neyland Feels Like Condemned Man Waiting for Visit of Mighty Tarheels

CONDENSED FROM AP, UP and INS

Tennessee's Coach Bob Neyland looked around the coaches' quarters in Shields-Watkins Field at Knoxville yesterday and said, "I feel like we are in a death cell. The only consolation is we don't have to take a long walk up any steps to the death chamber."

The reason for the strange words is that his Vols are hosts to Carl Snavely's undefeated North Carolina Tarheels Saturday afternoon.

In the 17 years that Neyland has been at Knoxville, he seldom has been cast in the role of "spoiler," but it's no secret that Saturday is his chance, and that the Carolina game is the one that he wants most to win.

In spite of the General's desires, there are a couple of facts which bar his path. First, Carolina, sparked by Charlie Justice and Hosea Rodgers, has trampled five opponents, piling up 1,524 yards in the process. Second, although the Vols will be up mentally, they're in poor physical condition. In fact, Trainer Mickey O'Brien, who's been there more than a decade, says it's the worst in his career.

J. B. Proctor, regular tailback, and Ralph Chancey have both been hampered by injuries for several weeks. Proctor has missed two games, and Chancey, regular fullback, has played less than 60 minutes all Fall. Then, too, Centers Jim Sivert and Gene Felty are hurt, along with Fullback Claude Hill.

Statistics give weight to the generally accepted theory that there are only three powers in the 10-club National Football League. The Philadelphia Eagles, Chicago Bears and Chicago Cardinals are dominating every department, with the Bears and Eagles in the defensive van, and the Cards showing the way offensively. The Eagles lead in the Eastern standings, while the Bears and Cards are deadlocked in the West.

With both Bill Waddail and Ralph Pyburn injured, Auburn's ace punter, Bobby Weaver, was running at first string right end in yesterday's drill for Vandy. However, Waddail will probably get the call Friday night in Montgomery.

Florida finished off rough work for their engagement with Furman yesterday minus Fullback Billy Parker. He hurt a knee during the drill and probably will miss the Hurricane battle. Chuck Hunsinger, Gator halfback, still leads the SEC with an average gain of eight yards per carry.

At Arkansas City, Kan., high school officials found a glass eye on the football field. The Athletic Director quickly emphasized two things: That no one-eyed officials had been used, and that no team to his knowledge had used a one-eyed player. They're holding the eye until someone claims it.

Citation worked out alone at Pimlico yesterday, and chances are that he'll run alone in Friday's Special. The track bosses hold little hope that anyone will enter a horse to compete with the three-year-old. If Citation runs alone, the purse will be cut from $25,000 to $10,000.

Changes in pro grid teams yesterday saw the Rockets waive Sam Vancanti, Jim Brutz, Herb Coleman and Ike Owens, and the Lions do the same to Tippy Madarik and Paul Sarringhaus. The moves cut the Rocket roster to 30, and the Lion squad to 33.

Maryland has lost Francis Evans, regular right end, for the season. His collegiate career — he's a senior—ended Saturday when he suffered a fractured cheek bone. The Terps' meet Miami Friday night in the Hurricanes' Homecoming game.

Athletic Director Gil Collison, who will tutor the cross-country team, also has announced a 22-game basketball schedule for the Petrels, opening with Berry College on Nov. 23. It includes seven Dixie Conference games.

BY ANY OTHER NAME—Illinois women Republicans at Chicago decided to give Mrs. Thomas E. Dewey a bouquet of woods violets when she arrived with the New York Governor for his campaign speech. The woods violet is the official State Flower of Illinois; but nowhere could they find one. "Out of season," they were told. POINT OF VIEW—Yale Psychologist Dr. Arnold Gesell says the age of seven "is the most sensitive age of your life." He added: "The child of seven is especially sensitive to praise and blame, and will never afterward be so deeply influenced by the actions of his elders." . . . Kathleen Windsor, the pretty brunette author of "Forever Amber," is establishing Reno residence to divorce Band Leader Artie Shaw. . . . An ex-Army nurse who spent two days reading a telephone book in Philadelphia provided police with the identity of an amnesia victim. The victim, James McMenamin, 50, of Bristol, Pa., recognized the name of his brother, John J. McMenamin, when it was read to him by Margaret Kane, a social service worker. . . . The new Methodist minister in Milford, N. H., will continue to operate his taxi business—with special low rates for the pious. Kendall W. Burgess, 50, former Army chaplain recently appointed by Bishop Wesley Lord, of Boston, said taxi fare to the church would be 35 cents, instead of the usual 50 cents. Burgess had temporarily retired from the ministry and established a taxi business.

Two more Georgians have joined the select society of "grasshopper gobblers."

J. W. Drummond, a 16-year-old Tucker High School student, "et" one for $20, and C. D. Strickland, of 540 Hightower Rd., swallowed one yesterday for $1.50.

Strickland completed the stunt for the nominal fee to "fight the inflation among grasshopper eaters." A coworker, Billy Williamson of 872 West End Place, who put up the money, is now planning a contest to see who can eat the most grasshoppers provided he can find contestants.

Drummond received his $20 from another 16-year-old Tucker High student, Jack Frazier, who evidently hadn't heard about the cut in prices.

Lost $86,000 At Cards Before Death

RENO, Nev.—(UP)—Denver socialite Leonard Harold Wolff bet and lost $86,000 during a night-long "blackjack" session before his body was found on a desert highway last Saturday. It was revealed last night.

His "date" for the fatal evening, Mrs. Gwyn Conger Steinbeck, estranged wife of Author John Steinbeck, told of the night of gambling at the West Indies Club outside Reno. Her statement was taken by the sheriff's office in its probe of the strange circumstances surrounding the possible suicide of the 29-year-old son of a Colorado investment counselor.

Wolff, a World War II bombardier and scion of wealthy Jacob Wolff was found dead of a bullet wound. The body was in his wrecked automobile on the slopes of Mt. Rose, 10 miles south of Reno.

2 Ordered Held In Still Raid; 2 Others Sought

Two men were ordered held under $1,500 bond each before United States Commissioner Frank Holden in connection with a raid Monday on a huge liquor still at 172 Forsyth St., S. W.

Walter Grady Leonard, 34, of 352 Martin St., S. E., was arrested at the still and J. R. Walden, 31, of 349 Cooper St., S. W., was apprehended at his home a few hours later, revenue agents said. Both were held at Fulton Tower pending the hearing.

Two others are being sought, Roy Sumner and Roy Shields, of the State Alcohol Tax Unit, said.

The still was housed in a three-story brick building almost in the heart of downtown Atlanta. Agents said it had a 12,000-gallon mash capacity and huge 42-gallon wooden barrels filled with sugar and barley mash. They estimated it could turn out 300 gallons of corn whiskey daily and said it had been in operation three days when raided.

Five Missing In Ship Crash

NORFOLK, Va.—(UP)—The 10,296-ton Tanker Tullahoma crashed into the 108-ton fishing trawler Colonna in Chesapeake Bay yesterday, sliced it in two and sent it plunging to the bottom. Five men were missing.

Coast Guard officers here said the collision occurred in pre-dawn, midway between the mouths of the Potomac and Patuxent Rivers.

Officers said the Baltimore-bound tanker tore completely through the trawler, slicing a 35-foot section off the bow. The after end sank in 50 feet of water. The bow section drifted slowly away.

The Tullahoma rescued 16 of the trawler's 21 men from the choppy bay, the Coast Guard reported. A wide search was on for the remaining five.

CALIFORNIAN'S DISCOVERY

Cancer Due to Virus, South's Doctors Told

MIAMI—(AP)—Dr. John E. Gregory of San Marino, Cal., contends cancer is due to a virus which makes normal cells sensitive to certain stimuli so that the cells grow wildly.

Gregory, of the Pasadena Research Laboratories at San Marino, listed such stimuli as certain "chemicals, irritants and excess hormones."

At the forty-second annual meeting of the Southern Medical Association, Gregory exhibited photographs—made with an electron microscope—which he declared showed "virus" in various types of cancer tissue.

Gregory's exhibit won for him "first honorable mention" by an Association committee which appraised all scientific exhibits on such standards as practicability, applicability to the practice of medicine and teaching value.

He told a reporter he had been able to isolate the "virus" from human cancer tissue, and grow it in eggs—and that rats injected with the material developed cancer even when no other carcinogenic (cancer-producing) chemical was used.

In monkeys, Gregory said, cancer was produced when the animals received both the "virus" material and estrogenic (female) hormone.

But he said "control" monkeys given estrogenic hormone alone developed only a non-malignant overgrowth of the breast, whereas those given both the "virus" and hormone developed actual cancer.

This indicates, he said, that "virus" must be present to make the cells sensitive to attack by another stimulus, such as the hormone.

In the case of the rats, he said, the indications are that an "overwhelming" dose of "virus" material alone can produce cancer.

He said the tiny particles which he identified as "virus" were photographed in all of 1,000 specimens of human cancer tissue which he declared covered all types of malignancy.

NEW METHODIST OFFICIALS FOR 1949—New officers chosen last night by the Atlanta Methodist Stewards' Association are, left to right, Alva G. Maxwell, of the Peachtree Road Church, President; Albert I. Armstrong, of the St. Mark Church, Secretary - Treasurer, and Joe B. Dekle, of Grace Church, Vice President.

Moore Tells Of Despair Overseas

By THOMAS M. ELLIOTT

Bishop Arthur J. Moore was heard last night by the Atlanta Methodist Stewards Association members in an address based on his observations at first hand of world conditions in the Far Eastern and European countries. He said those lands not only are devastated, but also the peoples are gripped by fear and despair. He interpreted the conditions as constituting a challenge to Christianity, such as it has not encountered heretofore. He appealed for solid ranks in the march to respond by clergy and laity.

Election of officers for next year was the chief item of business. For President in 1949, Alva G. Maxwell was elected; for Secretary-Treasurer, Albert I. Armstrong was named, and Joe B. Dekle was chosen Vice President. The three new officials are members of Peachtree Road, St. Mark and Grace Churches, respectively.

Hapeville Film Showing Brings 3 Indictments

The Fulton County Grand Jury, after witnessing a showing of the film, "Male and Female," yesterday returned an indictment charging a felony against B. E. Gore, manager of the Hangar Theater at Hapeville; P. G. McGregor, theater lessee, and W. R. Hundley, machine operator.

The indictment charges the three with exhibiting pictures tending to debauch public morals.

The men were arrested and the film seized in a raid by Sol. Gen. Paul Webb's investigators and County Police last week. The theater, officials said, continues to advertise the film, and they are studying means of preventing its being shown again.

LET'S SEE NOW

'Where Angels Fear To Tread . . .'

By DORIS LOCKERMAN

The door of her office on Fifth Avenue plainly said, "Fools Rush In," and the painted angels insouciantly floating around on the walls bearing ribbons, didn't diminish the words at all.

Inside Rosemary Sheehan, a fabulous red-haired Irish colleen, was knee-deep in the advertising and publicity business. She had 65 accounts, she had hit the top in women's careers in New York, and she was 30 years old.

So she quit.

She thought she was very smart indeed and sent notices to all her friends that she was retiring to go home to mother and dabble a little in the real estate business, adding, "If you need a house with a side drape or a peplum, call me up." And as a last word, "No busy careers for me!"

That was 1946.

Yesterday Miss Sheehan was in Atlanta, and if there was a ghost of retirement about her, he must have been laughing fit to kill at her antics.

She had lost a trunk. It was full of white mink coats and sable stoles and navy blue Russian broadtail jacket jackets, and it was valued roughly at $200,000 or so, and if Miss Sheehan gave a picture of serene withdrawal I have the whole thing out of focus.

Miss Sheehan was frantic, because the furs did not, of course, belong to her, but to several of her accounts for whom she was shepherding them to Atlanta to appear this noon at a fashion show at the Biltmore Hotel by J. P. Allen & Co.

Accounts? Oh, yes, business. Somewhere along the line Miss Sheehan has picked up some of that troublesome stuff again, and is back again, selling via the good-will-and-promotion route for such people as Hollander, who dyes furs.

"I simply couldn't keep out of it," she said breathlessly, tipping her scarlet hat over red hair, and unbuttoning a little mink collar that made her classic tweed suit into a very current production. "what with everybody dropping in at our house and asking me to do little things for them. You know, Clifton Webb phoning that he had to had to have his piano tuned because Noel Coward was coming to visit him, etc., etc. How can you be remote under such circumstances? You have to be helpful. It gets you in trouble. Likewise business."

Aside from the lost trunk (now found), Miss Sheehan has brought with her such things as the silk Russian broadtail dress-coat by Maxmilian, the one with a waistline and a Peter Pan collar that the Duchess of Windsor owns, a midnight blue sealskin cardigan, bound with ribbon; a sheared raccoon that looks like nutria, and a white mink "rotunda" cloak that really fits over a crinoline ball gown.

You know furs will make news with Miss Sheehan at the helm. So they do.

For your major 1949 investment, she suggests you think of a mauve mutation mink, still to be designed into a wrap, and still far from the drawing board. In fact, it is in the breeding cage. But the minks are showing such a lilac cast that they're a cinch to come up with a coat of lavender next season.

Or, if you're on a budget, don't overlook muskrat, honestly bonde, or American broadtail, tinted with blue. They're both bound to succeed.

SALLY FORTH Says:

Socialites To Arrive For Tech-Tennessee Game

The colorful football classic to be played here on Nov. 6 between Georgia Tech and the University of Tennessee is attracting prominent visitors from all over the South. The weekend promises to be one of the gayest of the Autumn, with breakfasts, luncheons, cocktail parties and dinners crowding the social calendar.

Coming down from Memphis will be Rebecca and Don Warren, who will be the guests of their father, Lee Ashcraft; the Napoleon Hills and the Hugo Dixons, who will visit either Callie and Bill Healey or Martha and "Smack" Garlington. The Marshall Derryberrys, of Nashville, will be entertained by Sarah and Billy Huger at their home on Valley Road.

On Nov. 5, the day of their arrival, Ellen and Wright Bryan will fete the group in the afternoon at their Peachtree Road residence. In the evening, the J. P. Garlingtons and the William Healeys give a dinner at the Mirador Room. Cornelia and Oliver Healey will entertain at a breakfast the following morning at the Driving Club, and after the game Nora and Dick Hull will give a small aperitif party for the Warrens. Vera and John O. Chiles and Julianne and Dick Garlington will honor the group on Sunday at a luncheon at the Capital City Country Club.

Louise and Ward Harrigan, of Jacksonville, Fla., who will arrive on Nov. 5, remaining through the following Monday as the guests of Irene and Green Warren, will also be delightfully entertained.

Among attractive couples from Charleston who will add luster to the weekend affairs will be Eula and Harry Johnson, Betty and Frank Ford, who will visit Sarah and Ed Merritt, and Marion and David Maybank, who will be the guests of their sister and brother, Tootie and Joe High Williams. In compliment to this sextet, Georgia and Dan Sinkler will give a buffet supper on Nov. 5 at their home on Mathieson Drive. The following day, Virginia and Tom Kirkland will honor the visitors at a breakfast at their home on Kingsboro Road. And on Sunday morning, Nov. 7, Mr. and Mrs. James Crist will give a coffee at their home on West Shadowlawn Avenue, prior to the departure of the Charlestonians for their homes.

Orchids Enough for Everybody

Honor guest for the dinner party at which Mrs. Edith Hills entertained on Sunday was that fabulous person, Clint McDade, who is recognized as the world's largest orchid grower, in addition to numerous other important connections. Mr. McDade lives for a part of the year in Chattanooga, and the rest of the time he divides between England, India and other countries where he maintains greenhouses.

He made a great hit with the feminine half of the dinner party, for when he stepped off his plane at Candler Field he carried a huge corrugated box filled with orchids—enough, if you please, to see that each lady had at least three for a shoulder cluster, to say nothing of the baby orchids for the men's buttonholes.

There were all colors—huge white ones with purple throats, some of apricot color, others of deep purple. Their stems were stuck in small tubes of water for the trip, and Mr. McDade arranged them after he arrived here. That is, he wired and wrapped the stems. He never uses ribbon or anything else to detract from their blooms, believing that they are prettiest when unadorned.

Mr. McDade is also a camellia grower, and served as one of the judges at Atlanta's Camellia Show last year. It was one of his London greenhouses that supplied the corsages for Princess Elizabeth's wedding to Philip Mountbatten last November.

Editor Sees No Price Hike As Necklines Take Plunge

By DORIS LOCKERMAN

Spring fashion will see plunging necklines, flaring skirts, clear, bright colors, beautiful fabrics, and you will get all this at no increase in prices.

The garment manufacturers were given a special bow yesterday by Miss Vesta Shaffer, Co-Editor, Women's Reporter, for keeping prices at an even keel in the face of rising costs for both labor and fabric.

Miss Shaffer spoke at a dawn meeting of the Southeastern Travelers Exhibitors, Inc., who will spend three days in Atlanta choosing Spring merchandise from booths which have packed the Municipal Auditorium from basement to attic. More than 900 buyers from all over the South will attend the mart.

The Women's Reporter editor, who likewise serves as stylist and fashion co-ordinator for Arkwright, Inc., New York, a resident buying service for 100 stores throughout the nation, forecast no let-up in business as long as unmarried women have their sights on unsuspecting males, and buy "campaign clothes," or married women try to keep the gleam in their husband's eye."

However, she said, it will also be a Spring when merchants may be haunted by the specter of mark-downs for ill-chosen goods, and when the customer may be expected to finger the goods speculatively and remark that she doesn't really like its texture or color.

This, she inferred, will indicate that the customer's day is just around the corner once more.

Spring, Miss Shaffer said, will see full-length coats smarter than the ever-present shortie, suits laden with trimming, pockets, buttons for an increasing femininity, and most of the better apparel will be shown in Navy blue, as usual.

Shantung, dark cotton cords, cotton taffetas, and irridescent cottons will be the leading Spring and Summer fabrics.

The fashion consultant advised merchants to spend more time and money on training help, fashion shows with dramatic emphasis, advertising that says what it means, and on windows that illustrate a story.

"The day when you can simply announce you have Spring dresses for sale at a price," she said, "is gone. It is no longer news."

Martins To Fete Debs

Mr. and Mrs. Chester Martin will entertain at a football breakfast on Nov. 13 at the Capital City Club, at Brookhaven, honoring Miss Bess Lundeen and Miss Mary Lee Higgins, popular members of the season's Debutante Club.

Mrs. J. Wen Lundeen and Mrs. J. C. Higgins, Jr., will pour coffee, and Mr. and Mrs. John Lundeen, Jr., will assist their parents in entertaining.

City's Women In Variety Of Activities

Women are in the spotlight today in garden, cooking and civic scenes.

The Glad Garden Club, which is an infant of one year old, is turning to food rather than flowers as a drawing card to raise funds for Tallulah Falls School.

Members will gather for lunch, for which they will pay a neat little admission fee, at the home of Mrs. J. W. Marchman at 1956 McLendon Ave., N. E., with Mesdames C. A. Otte, G. H. Fayard, C. A. Hausman and J. T. Wilkes as cohostesses. The hostess ladies have donated the food for the affair in a gesture of charity, and the sum collected will be their part in the support of the "Light In the Mountains." Mrs. H. K. Agnew is the club President.

Through Mrs. Alex Diamond, Program Chairman, members of the Atlanta Business and Professional Women's Division of Hadassah will hear Adalbert Freedman, Regional Director of the Southeastern Zionist Region, speak on "Statesmen of Israel" this evening at 8 p. m. at the Progressive Club. The latest political developments in Israel will be discussed in a forum to be led by Mrs. J. Selig Levy.

Mr. Freedman, a native of Strassbourg, France, received his educatio in America. After Hitler came into power, he traveled in France, Austria, Switzerland, Italy and Germany.

There is a tendency among American women to become known as homemakers rather than housekeepers. To further this aim, members of the College Park Woman's Club, under the leadership of Mrs. William S. Cantrell, is sponsoring a cooking school today. Miss Elizabeth Parker, Georgia Power Company Home Service Director, will conduct the school.

LAST DAY—Loretta YOUNG in "RACHEL and the STRANGER"

Stocks Continue Recovery On Strictly Selective Basis

NEW YORK—(AP)—The stock market responded to highly selective demand Tuesday. Gains for numerous issues ranged to around two points. A wide variety of key shares, though, were marked down fractionally. The recovery was hardly decisive, but it was enough to cancel many of the losses posted in Monday's minor setback.

Volume passed the 1,000,000-share level for the sixth full day running. Total turnover of 1,140,000 shares compared with 1,100,000 yesterday.

Failure of Big Steel to announce a special dividend was a sharp disappointment to those who had figured on an extra disbursement. Earnings, too, didn't measure up to expectations for many.

Extra, special and stock dividends rolled out of corporation board rooms at high speed. A great mass of fat earnings reports circulated in the financial district. The response of the market however, was not very encouraging.

Brokers suggested that higher quotations have anticipated, at least in part, past performance. Traders seemed more interested in weighing future earnings and dividends.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks advanced .2 of one point to 70.8. Of the 1,039 issues which sold, though, 361 advanced while 461 declined.

Rails showed an overall advance, helped by an increased Southern Railway dividend and an extra for Norfolk & Western.

Southern Railway at 48¾ was up 1¾ and smaller advances appeared for Santa Fe at 117½, Illinois Central 38, Baltimore & Ohio 14½ and Southern Pacific 60¾.

The setback in C. & O. was probably influenced by news that directors will receive a recommendation for early sale of a new $40,000,000 issue of mortgage bonds.

The market greeted almost with apathy the news that Gulf Oil earned about $117,000,000 in the nine months ended Sept. 30, a weighty increase over $66,700,000 in the comparable 1947 period. The stock ended ¾ higher at 74½.

Cities Service lost a point in the Curb and minus signs appeared for American Superpower, Creole Petroleum, Electric Bond & Share, Fairchild Camera, and Crosley Motors. Boosted a bit were American Bantam Car, Fansteel Metallurgical, Humble Oil, United Gas and Sheller Mfg. Sales were 250,000 against 270,000 yesterday.

FPC Ponders GP Allatoona Power Offer

The Federal Power Commission, at Washington, now has under consideration the proposed contract whereby the Georgia Power Company agrees to pay the Federal Government approximately $1,000,000 per year for the electricity to be produced at Allatoona Dam, near Cartersville. This $13,500,000 project is scheduled for completion late in 1949.

The Secretary of the Interior, who by law is vested with the authority to sell this electric power, made public the details of the proposed contract some months ago. If the FPC approves it, the contract will serve as a model for the sale of power from other public projects now under construction in the Southeast.

Under terms of the proposed contract, Georgia Power Company will pay an energy charge ranging from $32,500 per month to $42,500 per month and, in addition, 3.5 mills per kilowatt hour for peak Allatoona energy, 2 mills per kwh. for non-peak energy and the equivalent of 2 mills per kwh. for all water wasted over the dam.

The contract reserves a maximum of 2,500,000 kwh. per week for sale to public bodies, municipalities and co-operatives. However, because of the price element, it is expected that these bodies will continue to buy their electricity from Georgia Power Company.

The FPC has fixed Nov. 10 as the last date for filing objections to this proposed contract.

'Help' Lack Cited In Milk Shortage

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J.—(AP)—The board chairman of the Dairy Industries' Supply Association yesterday blamed the nation's milk shortage on lack of farm hands rather than a falling off in production by cows.

Robert Rosenbaum, of Philadelphia, told the local Rotary Club production was about 11,000,000,000 pounds under the 1941 per capita consumption. He estimated dairies would produce 117,000,000,000 pounds this year.

He said dairy farmers could not get sufficient help. Farm youth were leaving for city jobs, he said, thus raising the average age of dairy farmers.

The Seaboard also announced the promotion of a native Atlantan, J. G. Carlton, to the position of Master Mechanic at Hamlet, North Carolina.

W. J. Suber has been named Master Mechanic of the Georgia Division, with headquarters here. A native of Augusta, he had served at Savannah and Americus, where he was Master Mechanic.

COFFEE MARKET

NEW YORK—(AP)—Santos coffee futures sold-off sharply Tuesday on heavy selling. Traders attributed the reaction partly to cables from Rio that the Liquidating Committee of the National Coffee Dept. of Brazil has been provisionally authorized by President Dutra, of Brazil to export coffee under conditions assuring price and shipment control. Traders feared that Government selling of its coffee holdings might weaken the market. The market was also technically weak and vulnerable to profit taking, following the advance in coffee futures prices into new seasonal high ground. Spot coffee was firm. Coffee spot Santos No. 4 closed at 26¾-27n. Cost and freight offerings include Santos burbons 3s at 26.55-27.10n and 5s 24.40-25.05n. Santos No. 4 "A" futures closed quiet, no sales. Santos No. 4 "D" futures closed 13 to 25 lower. Sales 134 contracts.

U. S. Steel, 2 Railways Reveal Third-Quarter Profit Increases

Sharply increased profits were revealed yesterday by United States Steel Company, Southern Railway and Norfolk & Western Railway in third-quarter reports.

U. S. Steel's net was $34,599,132 in the third quarter, equal to $3.25 a share of common stock, compared with $28,735,082, or $2.58 a share in the third quarter of 1947. But the dividend was retained at $1.25.

September gross was $20,272,000 against $17,701,519, and September net was $1,379,000 against $545,000 last year when non-operating employee wage hikes boosted operating expenses.

Norfolk and Western's contribution to the parade was an extra dividend of $1 a share and a regular dividend of 75 cents on $25 par common stock, payable Dec. 10 to stockholders of record Nov. 10. The extra dividend came out of earnings transferred to surplus. ADVICE TO INDUSTRY-SEEKERS

Don't Let Big Pay Rolls Sweep You Off Feet

NEW ORLEANS—(AP)—Big pay rolls are overshadowing intelligent planning in the South's quest for new industries, a state planner said yesterday.

Dennis O'Harrow, Assistant Director of the Association of State Planning and Development Agencies, told the group's annual meeting "we should adopt a 'take it easy' policy."

O'Harrow said planning and development agencies are worrying too much about new industries and not paying enough attention to the mortality rate of small and established businesses.

"Instead of examining new industries," he said, "planning agencies in towns and cities of the South are anxiously grabbing the big pay rolls the industries offer.

"More thought should be given to accommodating properly the industries and determining their effects on local economy."

He urged also that incoming companies should be examined in regard to their past record in labor disputes.

A similar "slow down" policy was advocated by Dr. Victor Roterus, of the Development Division, U. S. Department of Commerce.

Dr. Roterus said a litle expansion along selective development lines "is better than a lot of expansion without any consideration as to what the community or area as to what he community or area is really looking for."

Dr. M. K. Horne of the University of Mississippi told the convention that the threat of rayon to the South's cotton crop has brought about he beginning of a "real technological revolution in the coton industry."

He said this ranged from soil development through the ginning process.

"An indication that the mechanical revolution is really getting under way," Dr. Horne said, "is the fact that hard-headed, shrewd businessmen this year are committing themselves to the mechanical picker."

Textron Head Denies 'Racket' Charge of Union

BOSTON — (AP) — Textron Pres. Royal Little yesterday defended the "unusual transactions" which, he said, made Textron a $125,000,000 a year corporation in five years and topped that by offering to open his family bank books to a Senate Committee.

The 52-year-old textile magnate testified for four hours in terming "false" the charges brought by CIO Textile Union Pres. Emil Rieve that his corporation was a "racket" using charitable trusts for "financial manipulation" before a Senate subcommittee headed by U. S. Sen. Charles W. Tobey, Jr.

Sen. Tobey presided at the reopening of a hearing which started in September in Nashua, N. H., after Union protests over Textron's announced closing of two mills in Nashua, employing 3,500.

Gov. John Pastore, of Rhode Island, where two other Textron mills were closed recently, joined in the protest.

Rieve had charged Textron's charitable trusts made money "readily available to Little to speculate with."

Questioning by Sen. Tobey brought from Little the statement that Textron trusts did permit the trustees to "speculate in the most violent form," but lawfully.

Textron used trusts by selling assets to them, then leasing back the assets to get working capital, Little contended. He said "the force of inventory tax laws has driven venture capital into trusts of this sort where the risk is worthwhile."

He said Textron had attracted venture capital to New England and its plan might save New England's textile industry.

Letters

with a Foreign Stamp!...

They come from all over. From Cairo and Capetown, Shanghai and Rangoon, Calcutta, China, Johannesburg.

They're written by all kinds of people. A colonel in Cherbourg, broker in Japan, builder in Bombay. They come scribbled, scrawled, typed—phrased in all kinds of English.

But they all want investment help . . . ask for the latest facts on some stock or company, an up-to-date appraisal of their present holdings, or a seasoned program prepared by our Research Division for anyone, free of charge—whether a customer or not!

That's why we weren't surprised by a recent letter from South America.

The man was an importer, had just read one of our ads, and wrote to ask for our "bright ideas" on investing $10,000. He said he expected a return of 10 or 15 percent—asked if that was possible.

The answer from Research didn't surprise us either. It simply stated that such an objective would be "difficult to reach without incurring unusual risk" . . . pointed out that any number of sound American securities did pay up to 8% . . . suggested a list of five securities that promised a more moderate—but safer—return.

They supported each selection with a brief dividend history, latest facts on earnings, the payments made last year . . . then implied that "bright ideas" usually burn out fast—that it's far better to buy on the basis of the best information available, instead.

If you'd like to see this sample of the help offered by Research, we'll be glad to send both letter and answer. But better still, why not get your own . . . ask for the current facts on stocks that interest you, an experienced appraisal of your present portfolio, a sensible program for investing any specific sum of money. There's no charge, no obligation. Just write—

New Orleans Cotton

NEW ORLEANS—(AP)—Cotton futures declined here Tuesday under long liquidation and hedge selling. Closing prices were steady, five cents to 80 cents a bale lower.

The December position was the weakest month on the Board. This was attributed to selling by a large interior spot interest. For the first time in the life of the December contract it was forced to a discount under March.

Early in the trading the market was higher on trade buying and short covering but as the day progressed prices receded under occasional selling flurries.

FISHER BODY EXPANDS—Plans for two new plants in the Pittsburgh area were announced yesterday by the Fisher Body Division of General Motors. J. J. Cronin, Vice President of G. M. and General Manager of Fisher Body, disclosed that a war surplus plant at Ambridge, Pa., has been leased from the Navy for one unit, and a site for construction of a new stamping plant has been acquired southeast of Pittsburgh. Located near the source of the steel they will process, the plants will turn out fabricated body parts and sub-assemblies to be shipped to assembly plants over the country, including the plant in Atlanta

SALES MEETING—Harold R. Berlin, Vice President and General Manager of Johns-Manville Building Products Division, will lead a dealer conference and district sales meeting in Atlanta this weekend. Berlin will be accompanied by three other Vice Presidents and 10 other top officials of Johns-Manville Sales Corporation. The 1948 dealer conference will be held Friday and the district sales meeting Saturday at the Biltmore Hotel. Some 200 building material dealers in the six Southeastern States will attend.

BRYAN QUOTED—An Atlanta banker, Malcolm Bryan, Vice President of the Trust Company of Georgia, is quoted in the current Fortune Magazine on the topic of business and ethics in a roundup of views on business in general. The quotation follows: " . . . I would perhaps give even greater emphasis to the ethical phase of our economic system; for I have the notion, perhaps naive, that almost any economic system can work with reasonable human satisfaction if it is operated by ethical and just men. Contrariwise, it seems to me a part of the difficulty that we are getting into in the modern world results from . . . a deterioration in the concept of what is right and just as against the concept of what is narrowly expedient and temporarily advantageous . . . "

N. Y. Cotton Declines Under Sale Pressure

NEW YORK—(AP)—Cotton futures were under pressure of liquidation and hedging Tuesday. Final prices were unchanged to 55 cents a bale lower.

Pressure developed in the nearby December delivery earlier in the session and had an unsettling effect on the entire market. Spot houses were credited with selling December against purchases of March. There was talk that fairly large tenders on December contracts may be made on first notice day Nov. 24. There is congestion at many gins and warehouse centers, Southern advices said, with rail embargoes imposed on further shipments to distributor points. Some merchants said this condition has stimulated sales of spot cotton below the loan level.

The Government weekly weather report noted the picking operations made good progress during the past week in the Cotton Belt.

There was a good deal of mill buying on the decline.

$310 Million British Loan Kicks Off ECA Program

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The delayed Marshall Plan lending program rolled forth yesterday with a $310,000,000 loan to Britain and ECA disclosure that more than $500,000,000 recovery credits for nine other nations are slated within a fortnight.

An Economic Co-operation Administration official said a $60,000,000 credit for Ireland is "imminent." Major loans of $170,500,000 for France and $80,000,000 for Holland, plus $15,000,000 for the Netherlands East Indies will be signed shortly, he said. The sums are approximate.

The British loan, to be repaid over 35 years starting in 1956, is this country's first credit to England since a $3,750,000,000 British loan of 1946. The hard-pressed Britons exhausted it in little more than a year.

Yesterday's announcement, made jointly by ECA and the Export-Import Bank of Washington, marked the much-delayed start of ECA's lending program. Congress specified about $1,000,000,000 of the $5,055,000,000 Marshall Plan funds for the first year must be restricted to loans rather than outright gifts.

The loan agreement contains an escape clause if Britain finds herself too short of dollars to make repayment on schedule. If "adverse economic conditions" prevail, payment of interest or principal or both may be postponed upon agreement between this country and England.

The interest rate, two and one-half percent, probably will govern the other loans granted, the ECA official reported. A minor credit to Iceland already granted, $2,300,000 at three percent for fishery development, likely will be revised to conform.

Payments on the principal will be made by Britain semi-annually starting in 1956. Interest payments will start in 1952.

The United Kingdom, the announcement said, will use the loan primarily for industrial machinery, equipment and raw materials.

Britain issued promissory notes to the Export-Import Bank for $310,000,000, while ECA allotted the same amount to the bank. The bank, which administers ECA's lending affairs, will pay out the money as Britain calls for it.

The other loans pending, in approximate amounts, include Belgium-Luxembourg, $50,000,000; Denmark, $25,000,000; Italy, $50,000,000; Norway, $35,000,000; Sweden, $10,000.000, and Turkey, key, $30,000,000.

Two of the Russian satellite countries, Poland and Hungary, were named yesterday as suppliers of Marshall Plan shipments to be furnished under ECA's grants.

Hungary will furnish freight cars valued at $1,000,000 to Bizone Germany and Poland will provide coal worth $825,000 to Austria. One of ECA's objectives in promoting European recovery is to restore trade between the countries on either side of the Iron Curtain.

SUGAR FUTURES

NEW YORK—(AP)—Dometic sugar futures were firm Tuesday on trade and Cuban buying, credited partly to covering against sales of raw sugar. Cuban producing interests were large sellers, attributed to hedging operations. The volume of trading was the largest in some time as the market appeared to reflect growing realization that the sugar supply will be fairly tight until new crop sugar starts moving to the market late in January of next year. World sugar futures were quiet. Raw sugar was firm, with offerings held at 5.70 cents a pound delivered. A New York refiner purchased Monday 4,000 tons of Philippines, arriving December 22, at 5.66 cents a pound delivered. Demand for refined was fair. Domestic sugar futures No. 5 closed unchanged to 1 higher, sales 288 contracts.

DRYGOODS REPORT

NEW YORK—(AP)—The cotton textile market was quiet Tuesday. Offerings of 80 square print cloths at 19 cents a yard, the price of which fair quantities were sold last week, dried up. General asking price was 20 cents a yard. Scattered sales were reported at this level. Sheetings were quiet and Osnaburgs turned dull following recent substantial sales which pretty well cleared up that construction for the balance of the year. Wool and rayon goods were quiet.

Foreign Demand Steadies Grains

CHICAGO—(AP)—Government interest and foreign demand gave the grain futures market a steady tone Tuesday. Corn and soybeans responded to reports that the Commodity Credit Corporation is entertaining bids for export. Wheat advanced on exports of eavy amounts of wheat going into storage during September.

Starting slowly, the trading advanced in value as traders found buying orders in corn. Some buying in wheat was attributed to milling interests. Light offerings in oats gave that grain a steady tone.

At the close wheat was unchanged to ⅝ higher than the previous close, December, $2.29⅞. Corn was ⅛ to ½ lower, December, $1.37⅝-¾. Oats were ⅛ to ⅜ higher, December, 77¾. Rye was one-cent to 2¾ higher, December, $1.85½. Soybeans were ¼ lower to 2¼ higher, November, $2.51¼-½. Lard was two cents to seven cents a hundredweight higher, November, $19.32.

Holland was reported to have purchased 1,440,000 bushels of corn for November-December shipment from Gulf and Atlantic ports.

The volume of trade in lard was fair. Prices advanced at the start on commission house buying, believed to be the result of a higher hog market.

CHICAGO—(AP)—Firm prices ruled for hogs and cattle in the livestock market yesterday, but lambs eased a bit.

Hogs gained 25 to 50 cents with the biggest advance on sows, which comprised only a small part of total receipts. Top was $26.50, paid for one load.

Arrivals in the cattle section were smaller than the trade had expected. That was one reason for the strong market. Prices on steers advanced around 50 cents with several loads of choice offerings bringing $37.50 to $38.00.

Slaughter lambs closed around 25 cents lower. Top was $24.50.

Total receipts were: Hogs, 13,000; cattle, 4,700; sheep, 4,000.

New York Busmen Defy Work Order

NEW YORK — (AP) — CIO transport workers went on strike against seven bus lines yesterday—causing the biggest surface transportation tieup in the City's history—and service remained virtually at a standstill late last night despite a back-to-work order.

An angry group of strikers who defied the order to get back on the job was r sponsible for the situation. A partial resumption of service had been effected but subsequently was called off because of what was termed the "ugly mood" of the dissidents.

Mayor William O'Dwyer, blaming Communists for the failure to heed the back-to-work movement, announced late in the day that City employees would be used if necessary to provide emergency service in some key places today.

The seven lines serve some 3,500,000 riders. The original tieup lasted four hours.

Police headquarters reported that no vehicles of private lines were operating in the Bronx or Queens. Extra police details were ordered to prevent any disorder. Disgruntled workers stopped some busses which had resumed schedules, police said.

The walkout called against the seven privately-operated firms was aimed at the State Public Service Commisison in a demand for payment of retroactive pay increases. The companies claim they cannot pay the back wages until the PSC grants permanent fare boosts.

Some 4,000 busses in New York and many trolleys in suburban Westchester County stopped service promptly at 9 a. m. (EST).

Typical of scenes throughout the city was the remark of one bus driver at 9 a. m.:

"Everybody out. This is our way of getting even." He gestured toward a drugstore. "Buy some footpads and start walking."

'Age-Conscious' Americans Hold $200 Billion Insurance

By PAUL JONES

Americans have become "old age conscious" and are making the greatest strides in history to build up funds for retirement.

J. T. Weir, of Athens, President of the Georgia State Association of Life Underwriters, here for the Association meeting, said yesterday that American lives would be insured for more than $200,000,000,000 at the end of this year. And, he said "a vast increase in the amount of insurance carried by family heads was stimulated by the Federal Government's Social Security program and the vast GI insurance plan."

'It's the peace of mind factor that counts," Weir said.

In 1937 less than $110,500,000,000 in total life insurance was in force with insurance companies in America, Weir stated. This figure jumped to $191,000,000,000 by 1947, emphasizing the influence Federal Social Security played in making Americans "insurance conscious."

James E. Rutherford, Executive Vice President of the National Association of Life Underwriters, here for the State Association meeting, said another reason for "the tremendous increase in the ownership of life insurance is the fact that most people are less self-sufficient economically today than at any other time in our history.

"In 1890, for example, four of five people engaged in agricultural pursuits, while today only one of five is so engaged. City dwellers lack the economic self-sufficiency of those who live on the land. For the majority of them, life insurance is the only means by which the hazards of death, disability and old age can be guarded against."

Weir, Athens Manager of the Life and Casualty Insurance Company, of Nashville, was honored at a banquet last night at the Atlanta Athletic Club.

ON THE LABOR FRONT

Electric Union Sues GE, Atom Officials

WASHINGTON—(UP)—The United Electrical Workers' Union (CIO) has filed a $1,000,000 damage suit against members of the U. S. Atomic Energy Commission and the General Electric Company and asked for a Federal Court injunction forbidding the Commission to blacklist the Union in atomic plants.

The court action was in answer to an order issued by Commission Chairman David E. Lilienthal on Sept. 28. He instructed the General Electric Company, to refuse to recognize the Electric Workers' Union as collective bargaining agent for employees of the Knolls atomic power plant in Schenectady, N. Y., which the company operates for the Government.

Lilienthal said the officers of the union have refused to sign non-Communist affidavits under the Taft-Hartley law, and added there is other "available . . . information" indicating the union may be Communist dominated.

In its suit the union told the Federal District Court it has contracts with General Electric giving it the right to represent all GE employees.

Lilienthal and his four fellow commissioners, Lewis F. Strauss, William W. Waymack, Robert F. Bacher, and Sumner T. Pike, were listed individually as defendants, along with the General Electric Company.

Private individuals or groups can not bring a damage suit against a Government agency itself without its official consent. But Government officials can be sued as individuals.

PICKETING BANNED

NEW ORLEANS——Two Maritime unions were restrained from picketing repair work at Gulf shipyards in a temporary injunction granted the National Labor Relations Board yesterday by U. S. District Judge Wayne Borah.

The injunction against the Pacific Coast Marine Firemen, Oilers, Water Tenders and Wipers' Association, unaffiliated, and the National Union of Maritime Cooks and Stewards (CIO) was asked by the NLRB on charges of secondary boycott.

PROTEST PAY DEMANDS

CHICAGO — (AP) — A spokesman for the nation's railroads asserted yesterday that the wage-hour demands of 1,000,000 workers in non-operating jobs are "tremendous and utterly unjustified."

Guy W. Knight of Philadelphia, counsel for the carriers' wage committee, told a presidential fact-finding board the demands would cost the roads $1,500,000,000 a year.

This sum is more than twice the railroad's expected total net income this year and is equal to "about one-fourth of the total annual payroll of the Federal Government," he said.

The unions, representing such workers as telegraphers, clerks, and shopmen, have demanded a five-day 40-hour work week with 48 hours pay and an additional wage increase of 25 cents an hour, plus overtime pay.

Tax Collections Hold Up Well, Says U. S. Chief

"Income tax collections are holding up well," according to George J. Schoeneman, Commissioner of Internal Revenue, at Washington, who is in Atlanta to visit his daughter, Mrs. Charles W. Adams, at 4421 Lake Forest Dr., N. W.

Arriving here after a three-week study of the income tax offices in the West, Schoeneman said:

"Collections are standing up to the Treasury estimates. I find that people don't generally realize what a big job we have. Our total volume of collections reaches $42,000,000,000 a year. We handle 52,000,000 income tax returns a year and make 23,000,000 refunds every year. And that's a big job in any man's language."

Marion Allen, Income Tax Collector in Atlanta, will tender Schoeneman a luncheon today at the Piedmont Hotel.

'NEW AGRICULTURAL FRONTIER'

Novelist Bromfield Cites Big Opportunities in South

"Go South, Young Man!"

That's the title of an article by Louis Bromfield, noted novelist, in the November issue of the Atlantic Monthly magazine.

Bromfield cites facts and figures to back up his advice.

"Today the New Frontier in agricultural land in the South offers as great opportunities as the First Frontier of virgin soil," he writes.

And with the opportunities in agriculture, Bromfield says that the opportunities for new industry in the South is just as great.

The reason for this phenomenal change in the South, Bromfield continues, lies in the dethronement of the "one-crop" economy and its replacement by cover crops which are rebuilding the Southern soil.'

42 DAYS NEAR STARVATION

Greek Guerrilla Girl Tells of Hardships

By LEO D. HOCHSTETTER

KASTORIA, Greece.—(NANA) The chilling tale of a stumbling band of some 1,500 Rebel recruits, most of whom failed to survive a relentless forced march lasting 42 days across the forbidding mountains of Northern Greece in February, has been unfolded here by a 17-year-old Greek guerrilla girl, Eleni Poulitou, who claims she was one of the survivors, gave herself up to a patrol of the Greek National Army following a skirmish with a mountain band in the Vitsi area.

Her hair still gone from a recent siege of typhus, the witness, who is only five feet tall, told official interrogators in the presence of this correspondent how the exhausted marchers had set out from a small village in Central Greece in the dead of Winter to cross the snowbound Pindus Mountains en route to the Grammos region near the Albanian frontier, then a Markos stronghold. They were led by rebel officers who rode mules. When finally the mules gave out, these leaders also went forward on foot—but not before a portion of raw mule meat was handed out to the famished column.

Eleni asserted that so weary did the recruits become that most of them threw away precious blankets and provisions which they were too weak to carry. Almost a third of the marchers, she added, were women, who received no special considerations. Those who fell by the wayside were urged to rise and plod on. Those who failed to do so were abandoned to their fate. Eleni claims that she stumbled a number of times but was temporarily aided by a companion until she was once more able to carry on.

In addition to the hazards of the mountain snows and the rigors of the march, the recruits were frequently subjected to shelling by Government forces. To flag their sagging spirits, the marchers were ordered to sing in unison. Eleni declared that the tunes were from old folksongs, but that new lyrics had been written eulogizing Stalin, Markos and other Communist leaders.

When finally the exhausted column reached its destination in the Grammos sector, those who were in any way fit were sent into combat after a brief rest, Eleni testified. Of an estimated 500 women recruits, she asserted that only 84 survived the march and, of these, 44 were stricken with typhus. After being hospitalized in Albania, they too, were later sent into combat.

Eleni, woh comes from a peasant family, claims that she was seized by Greek guerrillas during a raid last Christmas Eve in her native town, Lamia, in Thessaly. She then was sent to another community nearby where she was given an indoctrination course in Communism. After this instruction, the recruits were assembled in early February for the forced march. Although they were to be used as military replacements, and were issued rifles and ammunition for that purpose, Eleni insists that like herself, most of them never received military training.

Two Suspects Held in Series Of Robberies

Atlanta police today were holding two suspects as they sought to unravel a series of 12 burglaries and three robberies during the last 24 hours.

The robbery suspect, listed as Alphonze Dewberry, 16, Negro, of 802 Spencer St., N. W., was arrested on Ponce de Leon Avenue after a white girl chased him for several blocks in an attempt to recover her purse, police said.

Miss Marguerite McIntyre, of 110 North Ave., N. E., told Patrolmen R. W. Boyd and E. H. Scott she was walking along North Avenue when a Negro stepped out from an alley and grabbed her purse. She gave chase, screaming for help. Dewberry was arrested a short distance away.

A short time before Miss Margaret Cooley, of 1000 Todd Rd., told police she got off a bus at Todd Road and Virginia Avenue and started home when a Negro struck her in the eye, grabbed her purse and ran.

Miss Mittie Kenerly, of 129 North Ave., N. E., was treated at Grady Hospital for injuries suffered when a Negro grabbed her purse near her home, and knocked her down when she attempted to wrest it away. Dets. W. S. Acree and George Christian said Miss McIntyre's purse was recovered with the arrest of Dewberry and he was being questioned about the other two robberies.

John L. White, 21, of 325 Orange St., S. W., was arrested near the Hodges Service Station, 940 Memorial Dr., S. E., which had been rifled, Patrolmen J. M. Stephens and W. J. Hendrix said. The patrolmen said the intruder broke into a garage next door and then entered the station. A number of other burglaries were also reported.

Georgia AMVETs Oppose Bonus Now

Georgia Amvets, meeting in Gainesville, opposed any bonus at this time, according to Amvet National Committeeman Joe Crespi, who presided.

The Amvets voted to ask the General Assembly to follow the lead of other States in voting $10,000 to each nationally chartered veterans' organization for service work among needy veterans.

ARCO BID WINS—The Fulton County Board of Education has awarded to the Arco Company a contract to build four additional classrooms and a cafeteria at Perkerson School on Lakewood Avenue, between Perkerson Road and Stewart Avenue. The Arco bid was $74,18. The Board also received bids for demolition of the ruins of E. Rivers School, but awarded no contract pending an investigation.

EMORY BURKE APPEAL—Judge Walter Hendrix has taken under advisement an extraordinary motion for a new trial for Emory Burke, President of the Columbian organization, who was sentenced to serve three years for usurpation of police powers. His attorney, Jimmy Venable, alleged that Jimmy Aiken, a State's witness, had perjured himself during the trial. Asst. Sol. Bill Hall asked the Judge to dismiss the motion on the ground that a brief of evidence had not accompanied it.

BUCKHEAD "A" PRECINCT—The Buckhead "A" voting precinct will be located Nov. 2 at North Fulton High School, instead of at E. Rivers School as in the past, Sec. Neill Leach, of the County Democratic Executive Committee, announces. The change was made necessary by the fire at E. Rivers.

SMITH HEARING POSTPONED—Hearing on whether Mrs. Ina Mae Smith will bear the expenses of the State's unsuccessful attempt to have her adjudged insane, scheduled to have been held yesterday, has been postponed due to the illness of Judge Eugene Gunby. Mrs. Smith's lawyer, A. L. Henson, contends the State has neither a legal nor a moral right to make her pay approximately $300 in fees to Henry Bowden, who represented the State, or L. D. Burns, Jr., who was named her guardian.

Quartet Booked On Drug Charge

Atlanta detectives yesterday were probing the "bootlegging" of paregoric—a drug commonly used in the treatment of stomach disrders—as a narcotic.

Four persons under arrest have admitted distributing the drug at $3 per half pint, Dets. Roy Pendley and M. W. Blackwell said. They identified the four as Robert Dallas, 42, Negro, and his wife, Lucille, 35, of 188 Newman St.; Lena Williams, 52, of 82 Ellis St., N. E., and Mary Preston, 70, who lives in the rear of 201 Ivy St.

With local officers in making the arrests were G. M. Belk and L. G. Collins, agents of the Federal Bureau of Narcotics. The quartet was booked on charges of suspicion of violating the narcotics laws pending a thorough investigation.

Sommers Urges 2-Party South

Republican National Committeeman Harry Sommers urged in a statewide broadcast last night that everyone contrast the plight of the South "with two-party States such as Iowa and North Carolina."

"I believe we should all work for a two-party government in Georgia to bring us more prosperity," he said.

After the broadcast, Gen. Elbert P. Tuttle, chairman of the Fulton County Republican executive committee, spoke to the group, who had gathered for a final rally before election day.

JUST ANOTHER HUNTER—Gen. Omar Bradley, Chief of Staff of the U. S. armed forces, shed all his brass when he went hunting near Aberdeen, S. D. With Bradley, left, are Maj. Gen. Norman T. Kirk, retired, and E. R. Judy, Aberdeen oil man. Pheasants were the quarry of the hunting trio.

'A MILESTONE IN U. S. HISTORY'

Unified Forces Should Bar Past Errors, Hall Asserts

A be-medaled Navy Vice Admiral with 40 years of distinguished service deftly turned the joint Kiwanis-Chamber of Commerce Navy Day observance here into a tribute to all the armed forces.

"But," twinkled V. Adm. John L. Hall, Jr., "there'll always be a Navy!"

Commandant of the Armed Forces Staff College at Norfolk, Va., and former commander of amphibious forces in the Pacific, Adm. Hall yesterday reported unification of the armed forces was progressing and "should eliminate past errors and inconsistencies."

He termed the National Security Act, with its creation of the Nation Security Board and other unification forces, "a milestone in U. S. history."

The Navy Day speaker assured the Atlanta group, however, that "nothing in the program was detrimental to the Navy; we remain as essentially Navy as John Paul Jones and David Farragut!"

State and City officials, representatives of other civic clubs in Atlanta, and Army and Navy "brass" turned out to pay tribute to the Navy Day observance and Adm. Hall. The speaker did not touch on the subject of a third World War in his address here, but earlier had told a Constitution reporter: "War is not imminent, but we must operate on the principle that it could happen tomorrow."

Adm. Hall told the group here, "The place of the Navy in the future will be no less important than in its glorious past."

PLEA TO GEORGIANS

Cards Asked For Dying Chicago Boy

Georgians are asked to send birthday greetings to a dying Chicago boy by R. J. Chadwick, of 267 Berean Ave., Southeast.

Paul Nelson, Jr., a once-husky 190-pound high school athlete, was in an auto accident 14 months ago, and his spinal cord was severed. Doctors give him only a few weeks to live.

The Atlantan, who visited Paul in Chicago recently, said the boy's seventeenth birthday next Wednesday probably will be his last—and he urged his fellow Georgians to help make it a happy one.

"It's his heart's desire to get a lot of cards," Chadwick explained.

Chadwick gave Paul's address as 2746 Windsor Ave., Chicago 80, Ill.

Arguments Filed In Capone-Men Plea

Opposing attorneys yesterday presented arguments on whether two former Chicago gangsters should be released from Federal Prison here.

Both sides are to file briefs on the argument within 10 days.

The two prisoners, Charles Gioe and Louis Campagna, are seeking their freedom from the Atlanta Federal Penitentiary on writs of habeas corpus in Federal Court before Judge E. Marvin Underwood.

SLUM PARLEY—Atlanta officials yesterday participated in a round-table discussion of health and welfare problems involved in Atlanta's Slum Clearance Program at a meeting sponsored by the Atlanta Social Workers Club at Wooding's Cafeteria. Among those participating were Councilman John A. White, Chairman of the Slum Clearance Committee; City Bldg. Inspector Marvin Harper; H. P. Dobbs and R. W. Buck, of the Health Department, and Jay Wallace, of the City Planning Commission office.

FIRE LIMITS SURVEY—Fire Chief Styron, Bldg. Inspector Harper and Col. Wyont Bean, Engineer-Secretary of the City Planning Commission, yesterday began a study of the boundaries of the inner fire limits with a view of resetting the limits to include more of the downtown area.

COUNCIL FETED—Members of City Council last night were guests of the Association of Administrative Department Heads of the City of Atlanta at a dinner held at the Pine Tree Tea Room. The affair was billed as "strictly social."

DAVIS HEARING SET—The City Personnel Board will hear an appeal by T. C. Davis, ousted custodian of Hoke Smith High School, at 11 a. m. next Thursday. Davis was dismissed by school officials for insubordination and has appealed his case to the personnel group.

ATALANTA INSTALLATION—Mayor Hartsfield will install newly elected officers of the Atalanta Club, organization of women employees at the City Hall, at a dinner meeting at 6 p. m. today at the Pine Tree Tea Room. The new slate is composed of Mrs. Betty Robinson, President; Miss Julia Elliott, First Vice President; Miss Mary Spradlin, Second Vice President; Miss Dorothy Shores, Secretary, and Mrs. Rose McGrath, Treasurer.

RECEPTIONIST SOUGHT—City Personnel Director Carl T. Sutherland yesterday secured approval of the Personnel Board to a proposal to employ a receptionist at a salary range of from $210 to $245 monthly. He said the duties of the employee would be to give preliminary interviews to applicants for City jobs.

WOODWARD APPROVAL DEFERRED—City Council's Parks Committee in special session yesterday deferred approval of the $1,400,000 widening and extension of Woodward Avenue pending new studies by City Planning Commission Engineer Wyont Bean. Ald. Lee Evans, Parks Committee Chairman, proposed that the route be shifted approximately 125 feet northward to bypass most of the James L. Key golf course. Another Committee session is slated for next Tuesday when final action is expected. A group of citizens and officials urged sanction to relieve traffic congestion on Memorial Drive.

TRAIN CONTRACT—Council's Parks Committee has recommended that Mayor Hartsfield negotiate a new contract for operation of the miniature train at Grant Park. George I. Simons, Parks Manager, informed the Committee the concessionaire had paid $2,100 into the Treasury thus far this year. The City gets 25 percent of the gross receipts under the existing agreement.

MAYOR'S DAY—Mayor Hartsfield yesterday handled a heavy mail. He welcomed Vice Adm. John L. Hall, Jr., who was in Atlanta in observance of Navy Day and attended a meeting of the Kiwanis Club at which Adm. Hall was the honored guest. The Mayor also attended a meeting of the City Department Heads at which Council members were feted.

COUCH PARK ADDITION—City Council Monday will be asked to allocate $15,000 for the purchase of another two acres of land to add to the J. Allen Couch Park. The Parks Committee yesterday approved the expansion and sent it to Council for sanction.

Vidalia House Sold

VIDALIA—Real estate purchases reported here this week include the transfer of a six-room brick home located on the Vidalia-Lyons road just east of the city limits to Sam P. Thompson. The 6-room house is on a parcel of land containing four acres and known as the Coleman place. Mrs. D. V. Coleman made title

New Police Probation Job Up Tonight

Another controversy between City Personnel Director Carl T. Sutherland and members of City Council's Police Committee may develop tonight over a proposal to create a new position of chief probation officer for the police department.

The City Personnel Board yesterday sanctioned an ordinance prepared by Sutherland for Ald. Ed A. Gilliam, Chairman of the police group. Qualifications as set out were regarded as so stringent that the Personnel Board directed that experience be substituted for university study.

An objection, expected to be raised to the new proposal at tonight's session, is that the salary range is from $322 to $378 a month, a figure more than $100 a month more than that offered for the probation officer's jobs and more than the salary of a police captain.

A second criticism voiced freely yesterday was that it fails to establish any physical standards for applicants. At a recent meeting of the Police Committee, Mayor Hartsfield and Sutherland engaged in a sharp exchange over the stature of candidates Sutherland approved for the probationary officer's post at that time. The committee refused to employ any of the applicants at at time and the decision to set up a separate department followed the refusal.

The committee also is slated to consider a proposal to construct an island and radian traffic dividers at Gordon Street and Cascade Avenue to channelize traffic.

I believe in religious freedom, but the law is plumb simple when it lets a swindler start a fake religion just to make himself rich.

Opening lead: Jack of Spades.

Both sides vulnerable, East deals.

That it is not necessary to bid every time a good hand is held is an idea that it is difficult to sell to many players. When the bidding is opened for an adversary, a cool business head is required to determine whether or not to enter the auction. "What is my best chance of showing a profit, or minimizing my losses? Bidding or passing?" Answer that question soundly and you will know whether to compete. With hands of great playing strength you have aspirations of showing a profit by buying the contract for your side. With hands of great defensive value your best chance to get on the right side of the ledger is to let the opponents bid themselves into trouble. Hands containing four or more honor tricks should be passed when the enemy has gotten in the first bid.

In today's hand South incurred a loss by failing to use this line of reasoning. East opened with one club and South holding four honor tricks felt he was under compulsion to double. West used fine judgment in passing. Many players in this position became panicky and inject a bid of one spade for fear the club double will be left in. West reasoned that his best chance to show a profit would be to permit the enemy to bid. They might fall into one of his suits, which he intended to double, because prospects of a game for his side did not appear to be bright. North was in that unenviable position in which we all sometimes find ourselves. He tried to get out of the mess in the cheapest possible manner by bidding one diamond. South now tried one no trump and West doubled. There was no place to run and the hand was played there.

The jack of spades was led and East unblocked with the queen. Declarer won and led the king of clubs. East took the trick and continued the spade. Declarer ducked but the suit was continued and established. South found himself unable to do any more than cash his four high card tricks and settled for an 800 point loss. On the surface it would appear that the loss amounted to only 200 points because the opposition could have made a game at no trump. But there is no assurance that they would have reached that contract in the bidding. West did not have very much in high cards and the void of clubs might have deterred him from trying for a no trump game.

After the opening bid, South should have reasoned that his chance for a game was not very good and the best chance for a profit was that the opponents would hang themselves. Proper strategy called for a pass.
